

BOND GUARANTEE TO BE ASKED TOMORROW; REPUBLICANS DENY ROOSEVELT POLICIES

50,000 MORE JOBS FOR CWA WORKERS ASKED BY GEORGIA

Allocation Urged by Delegation in Conference With Relief Administration Officials and President Roosevelt.

IMMEDIATE ACTION URGED BY GEORGE

President is Told That Additional Jobs Urgently Needed to Take Care of Unemployed.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS. WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—President Roosevelt and officials of the federal relief administration were urged today by members of the Georgia delegation in congress to allocate at least 50,000 additional CWA jobs to the state.

As a committee representing the state delegation Senator Walter F. George, Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., Representatives John S. Wood, of Canton, and Paul Brown, of Elberton, went to the White House to discuss the situation with the chief executive.

Acting as spokesman for the group, Senator George sought to impress upon the president the urgency of immediate action, insisting that additional CWA jobs are vitally needed to take care of the state's unemployed.

"These new jobs," said Senator George, "are especially needed at this time because a number of Georgia counties have never organized relief organizations of their own and consequently the requirements that at least some of the destitute must come from relief rolls, precluded the taking advantage of what otherwise would be full job allocation."

Harrowing Powers Limited. Other members of the delegation calling at the White House directed the president's attention to the fact that owing to the fact that the state constitution limited Georgia's borrowing power, full advantage could not be taken of the administration's public works program.

The group went to the White House after the Georgia delegation earlier in the day decided to hold its first session of the new session today to discuss ways and means of obtaining additional civil work jobs and also to frame a resolution calling upon Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to use his influence in expediting action on the pending AAA milk market.

Hours in Auto Code Extended by Johnson

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Hugh S. Johnson today approved a modification of the automobile code which will permit the motor plants to work their employees 40 hours instead of the original 35 hours a week fixed by their codes.

Johnson justified this increase in working hours, the first action of its kind ever taken on an NRA code, by saying that increased purchases of cars next spring would, at the present 35-hour schedule, result in bringing to Detroit and other manufacturing centers an excessive number of workers who would have to be laid off immediately after the spring production rush had ended.

Two Georgians, E. T. Booth, of Woodstock, and G. Arthur Gordon Jr., of Savannah, captured two of the four valuable Rhodes scholarships awarded Monday night to distinguished students in the six states comprising the third district, from which the selections were made.

The other selected were H. C. Pollack, of the University of Virginia, a resident of Charlottesville, and Robert W. Barnett, born in Shanghai, China, and now a student in the University of North Carolina.

The selections were announced by a committee headed by Dr. M. Ashby Jones, prominent Atlanta minister, after a lengthy examination of candidates at the Baltimore hotel, during which the 12 students nominated for final consideration were interviewed. Mr. Booth is a student at the University of North Carolina.

MILK WAR BRINGS U.S. TRADE QUOTAS WAVE OF VIOLENCE FRANCE EXTENDS

Trucks Pushed Into River; Thousands of Gallons of Product Dumped.

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Amid violence and sabotage that extended for 100 miles around the city, efforts were under way tonight to settle a farmers' selling strike that had reduced milk shipments into Chicago to meager supplies for infants and hospitals.

Thousands of gallons of milk were dumped during the day. Five trucks making deliveries were pushed into the Chicago river and another burned. Pickets set up effective blockades on every highway over which milk might be shipped. There were slurrings and raids on milk depots.

Dairymen and farmers' representatives conferred for hours in Chicago, but it appeared certain the strike would continue for one more day at least.

Dumping of milk and other violence extended for a 100-mile radius about the city. At least three attempts were made to burn bridges.

Youth Hit With Brick Dies of Head Injuries

Idus Holt, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Holt, of 109 Alexander street, N. W., died at Grady hospital Monday afternoon from head injuries suffered at about 2 o'clock Sunday morning when he was struck by a brick thrown during a fight that followed a Saturday night party.

Detectives who investigated the affair said Holt and three other youths were fighting in front of 304 Williams street and that a brick hurled by one of them felled Holt. He was taken to the hospital suffering from skull fractures in four places. A delicate brain operation was performed in an effort to save his life.

Three men arrested in connection with the affair gave their names as Curtis Cook, of 303 Williams street; Jack Roberts, of 85 West Peachtree street, and C. W. Everett, of 304 Williams street.

Surviving young Holt in addition to his parents are a sister, Mrs. W. C. Lewis, and his grandmother, Mrs. R. L. Ramey, of Cornelia, Ga. Funeral arrangements will be announced by Sam Greenberg & Company.

STAVISKY IS DYING OF BULLET WOUND; MINISTER RESIGNS

'Handsome Alex' Shoots Self as Police Crash Into Room to Arrest Him in $40,000,000 Fraud.

CHAMONIX, France, Jan. 9.—(Tuesday)—(AP)—Serge Stavisky, founder of the fallen Bayonne Municipal Pawnshop, who shot himself when police closed in on him yesterday, died early today.

PARIS, Jan. 8.—(UP)—The resignation of Colonies Minister Albert Dalimier from the cabinet of Premier Camille Chautemps was officially announced tonight.

He was forced to quit as a result of collapse of the Credit Municipal Bayonne, involving him as a sponsor of a huge false bond issue through that institution.

Dalimier's resignation was accepted by Premier Chautemps. The colonies minister was the butt of bitter criticism against the government in the public press and among the members of the chamber of deputies.

Admits Writing Letters. He admitted writing letters supporting the bond issue by the bank while a member of the government in another regime, but insisted the letters were merely a matter of routine and that he had no personal interest in the matter.

His resignation came after an extraordinary session of the cabinet. It was the second session in the case.

Earlier word had come to Paris of the attempted suicide in an Alpine cabin, near the Italian frontier, of Alexandre Stavisky, fugitive head of the bank.

The man whose $30,000,000 issue of false bonds has involved the government and threatened to cause overthrow of the cabinet lay near death in a hospital at Chamonix, where doctors worked desperately to save his life that he might be returned for trial.

All doctors from nearby resorts gathered at Mont Blanc hospital, where Stavisky was placed on the operating table at 7:30 P. M. Stavisky had been unconscious since found at the villa, a single shot through his right temple.

News to Paris. Word of his attempted suicide reached Paris as the cabinet sat in its extraordinary session.

Nation-wide excitement was caused by the capture of Stavisky by police who surrounded him in a seldom-occupied villa on the outskirts of Chamonix. The police had a tip that Stavisky was seeking to hide in the sparsely settled Alpine region, and their search centered around the village of Chamby.

Interior Minister, of the surety general in Paris, four gendarmes and two detectives had almost abandoned the hunt and were preparing to return to Paris when villagers from the nearby town of Chamby sent word that smoke was coming from the small inn known as the Villa Vieux Logis, on the edge of the resort, where thousands of persons passed today on their way to the ski plateaus.

Chapentier and his aids hurried to the villa. They rang the bell and shouted to whoever was inside to come out.

The police decided to break in, and shattered a window. Simultaneously, there was a shot inside. The officers clambered through the window and

2 Atlanta Airwomen Have Motor Trouble

WAYCROSS, Ga., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Madeline Johnson and Mrs. Ruth Mohr, Atlanta fliers en route to the air races at Miami, Fla., were forced to land here late today when their airplane developed motor trouble.

Mrs. Johnson said the two were a short distance out of Waycross when the motor began to misfire so they turned back. By the time the motor was repaired, she said, it was too late to go on to Jacksonville, where they had planned to stop tonight, so they remained in Waycross.

The woman fliers will take off at 8 A. M. tomorrow to continue their flight to Miami. Stops are planned at Jacksonville and Daytona Beach, Florida.

Brilliant Atlanta Audience Thrilled As Chicago Company Presents 'Aida'

The impression here suggests a study in delight. The members of the Chicago Opera Company who will have leading roles in the presentation of "Faust" at 8:15 o'clock tonight are seen glancing at the score of the opera. From left to right they are Nino Rissi, basso, who will sing "Mephistopheles"; Elvira Hehl, mezzo-soprano, whose role is that of "Siebel"; Lawrence Power, tenor, "Faust"; Annunziata Garrotto, soprano, "Marguerite"; and Mario Valle, baritone, "Valentine." Staff photo by George Cornett.

By MOZELLE HORTON. Atlanta's 1934 opera season—a dream vision since the last opera season in 1930 actually became a reality—opened Monday night in the city auditorium when the Chicago Opera Company presented Verdi's "Aida" to a very nearly capacity audience that both in numbers and brilliancy rivaled the most important successes of the former days.

The most overpoweringly impressive scene of the opera was in the second act when the king and his court joyously welcomed Rhadames and his victorious army home. Brilliance and splendor reigned in the acting, the singing, the scenery, the ballets, and a sweeping musical climax was reached, sending a wave of tremendous appreciation sweeping over the audience.

Temple Scene Artistic. The beauty and dignity of the temple scene in the first act was an artistic production. A pulsing reality were the deeply felt conflicting emotions of the characters in the third act, when Aida's father persuaded her to find out Rhadames' military secrets, when Aida implores with her

'BLIND FLIGHT' ACE FACES ARMY TRIAL

Collusion Is Charged to Fellow Officers by Aviation Expert.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Major William C. Ocker, blind flying expert who developed instruments enabling pilots to guide their planes through fog, was ordered court-martialed today for use of "improper language" to other Kelly field officers after he had been "grounded" on account of imperfect vision.

The charges, signed by Lieutenant Colonel Henry B. Clagett, commander, and Major C. C. Johnston, post surgeon, at Kelly field, were filed under the ninety-sixth article of war and alleged that on September 29 Major Ocker was ordered to appear before Major Johnston for physical examination.

The specification under the accusation quoted Major Ocker as saying: "If other pilots on this field, namely, such as Colonel Clagett, and Major C. C. Johnston, were to be taken into consideration, they, too, would be off the flying status."

Another statement charged to him was: "There was collusion between the commanding officer of this station and you (Major Johnston) relative to my examination."

After a second examination, Major Ocker was placed back on the flying status.

Major Ocker first attracted public attention when he advanced the theory some years ago that pilots inevitably went into spins after their motor was cut off by fog or other atmospheric conditions. He kept pounding at that problem until he developed instruments which provided a measure of safety.

TOKYO, Jan. 7.—(AP)—A sudden panic and stampede in the Kyoto railroad station today while a huge crowd was saying farewell to recruits for the imperial Japanese navy resulted in the deaths of 66 persons and injuries to 48.

An investigation was immediately started to determine the exact cause of the tragedy in which the victims, a number of them women and children, were trampled under foot by the wildly surging crowd.

First aid was given those less seriously hurt and the other victims were rushed to hospitals.

PRESIDENT READY TO REVEAL VIEWS ON ST. LAWRENCE

White House Outlines Plans for Refinancing Agriculture With Government to Back Bonds for Purpose.

ROBINSONS CLASH ON ADMINISTRATION

Indiana Senator Sees Dire Future Under 'New Deal' While Things Look Good to Arkansan.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—While congress piled up today fuel for the fires of dissension on capitol hill, President Roosevelt sent word to democratic leaders that he would transmit special messages, probably on Wednesday, outlining his views on the St. Lawrence waterway treaty and proposing a government guarantee of farm credit bonds.

Bit by bit, in measures demanding reinstatement of many of the veterans' cuts that were made by the emergency session, asking why hog prices went down during the last two months and calling for a report on how the collection of the Lawrence waterway treaty and proposing a government guarantee of farm credit bonds.

From the White House came an outline of details of the new plan for refinancing agriculture with the government guaranteeing the principal of bonds for this purpose.

A government corporation capitalized at $200,000,000 with authority to issue the $200,000,000 in agricultural bonds will be proposed.

To Be Recalled. Existing refinancing bonds totaling about $150,000,000 will be recalled. Mr. Roosevelt discussed this proposal with Governor Myers, of the farm credit administration, and later with Secretary Morgenthau.

He also talked with Jesse H. Jones on the continuation of the lending authority of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which expires in the middle of this month.

Meaning in the senate, Robinson, of Indiana, a republican, who lost few opportunities to assail the democratic administration during the special session, stopped into the first day of senate debate with a speech calling the president's message one of "glittering generalities" and his budget recommendations as "amazing."

He drew an immediate reply from Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader.

The veterans' proposal, embodying the program of the American Legion, was introduced in the senate by Reed, of Pennsylvania, an old guard republican who in the past has been

Wife Accuses Rudy Of Many Infidelities

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 8.—(AP)—A separate maintenance action charging Rudy Valle with being "intimate on numerous occasions" with Alice Faye, movie actress, and two "Jane Does," was filed against the singer and orchestra leader today by Fay Webb Valle.

The complaint, sealed at first, was ordered opened at insistence of the singer and orchestra leader.

It said that Mrs. Valle, daughter of the Santa Monica police chief, was in ill health, suffering from ailments with which the defendant is familiar, and for which she is unable to pay medical bills.

It informed that Mrs. Valle's action, first reported as a divorce suit, had been filed sealed. Valle instructed his attorney to open it immediately. He expressed surprise at the suit.

If everything eventually has to be brought out," he said, "we will let her speak for herself. I am amazed at her audacity. I don't want to blast her."

Mrs. Valle was not available for comment.

RAILROADS FIGHT SLASH IN TARIFFS

Traffic Reduced to Unprofitable Volume, Service Commission Told.

Railroads operating in Georgia told the public service commission Monday that stagnation of business and not high rates had reduced their traffic to an unprofitable volume.

Frank W. Gwathmey, of Washington, representing a number of lines, told the commission at the opening of its investigation of general freight rates that tariffs now in force were so low that if there were enough business the railroads would be getting their share.

He said it was a "general mistaken idea" that a reduction of rates would reduce traffic enough to bring revenues back up.

The hearing was on an order of the Georgia commission that the carriers show cause why all rates should not be reduced. Specifically the first phase of the investigation is related to class rates, which form the basis of the whole complicated rate structure.

The commission in its order for the investigation suggested application of the rate basis now in force in northern territory, with the same differentials for lower classifications as now apply in Georgia. The proposed basis would produce a charge of 72 cents per 100 pounds of first-class freight for a haul of 100 miles, as against a charge of $1 under the present rates.

Commodity rates, applying to specific articles, and truck competitive

CANNON ORDERED TO STAND TRIAL

Supreme Court Rules Bishop and Secretary Must Face Tribunal.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The supreme court held today that Bishop James Cannon Jr. and his secretary, Aida L. Burroughs, must stand trial on an indictment charging them with failing to report contributions received in the churchman's 1928 fight against Alfred E. Smith for president.

The court upheld the validity of the corrupt practices act, requiring reports to the clerk of the house, which had been challenged by the southern Methodist churchman.

Bishop Cannon and his secretary were alleged by the government to have received contributions from E. C. Jameson, of New York, and to have failed to report them.

When brought to trial, they contended the indictment was defective and that the corrupt practices act was unconstitutional.

The District of Columbia supreme court quashed the indictment, but the district court of appeals held it was good, and ordered Bishop Cannon and Miss Burroughs to trial.

The power of congress to protect the election of president and vice president from corruption being clear."

'New Deal' Based on Misconception, Mitchell Tells Atlanta Audience

Dr. Broadus Mitchell, Johns Hopkins University economist, expressed the opinion here Monday night that the collapse in 1929 marked the end of an economic era and that the Roosevelt national program will fail to result in a permanent prosperity for the reason that it is based on a misconception.

Three Minute Relief From Periodical Pains

It is so unnecessary to suffer month after month from inorganic pains, because "B. C." will bring something relief in three minutes. "B. C." is prepared by a registered pharmacist, compounded on a different principle from most relief-giving agencies in that it contains several ingredients, used by many physicians, so blended and proportioned as to accomplish in a few minutes what we believe no one drug formula can do in so short a time. "B. C." should also be used for the relief of common colds, headaches and neuralgia, muscular aches and pains, reducing fever and for quieting a distressed nervous system without opiates, narcotics or such habit-forming drugs. Get "B. C." in 10c and 25c packages, wherever drugs are sold. (adv.)

No More Piles

You Can End Your Awful Misery Quick Without Cutting or Salves

Thousands of Pile sufferers do not know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

This is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give permanent relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.

Your itching, bleeding or protruding Piles will only go when you actually remove the cause—and not one minute before. External treatments can't do this—an internal medicine should be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonard, sold by good druggists everywhere, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts.

So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Jacobs' Drug Stores invite every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case?—(adv.)

FINDS EFFECTIVE TREATMENT FOR ARTHRITIS

A retired business man of Pasadena, who had been unable to walk for more than three years as the result of Arthritis (stiff joints), reports that he finally secured a prescription which not only brought him freedom from pain, but restored him to a life of activity. He then supplied the formula to others who were afflicted with ailments resulting from excessive uric acid such as Arthritis, Neuritis, Lumbago, Gout, Sciatica and Rheumatism, and they, too, reported their first relief. Reckitt's Hydrex Tablets are prescribed by many physicians and endorsed by leading druggists. No matter what other treatments you have taken or how near you have suffered from any form of Rheumatism caused by excessive uric acid, you should try Reckitt's Hydrex Tablets. See your druggist, or write Reckitt, Pasadena, California. Do this today.

gains would result from the administration's present policy and some improvements. The improvements will be temporary, however, he contended, for the chief reason that the nation cannot continue under operation of the system of private gain and a mixture of collectivism.

The collapse of the stock market in 1929 was not the mark of a collapse of a business cycle, he said, but the end of an economic era. Under the system of private profit, said Dr. Mitchell, the producing class can never realize enough for its labor to buy back the totality of its produce; otherwise there could be no profit. Hence, he emphasized, surpluses are inevitable and ultimately the system destroys itself. It is that destruction which the country faces today, he said.

Dr. Mitchell expressed the opinion that President Roosevelt should have taken over the banks when he declared the bank holiday last March. The country would have supported him, he said, and the move would have initiated a program which necessarily would have comprised the departure from the old system which the speaker said he thought were inevitable.

SAVAGE CHAMBERS POSTS UNDER FIRE

Dropping of Two Men Recommended by City Finance Board.

Second Assistant City Attorney Jack C. Savage and W. Evans Chambers, city survey expert, will be dropped from municipal pay rolls if the mayor and council approve personnel cuts recommended Monday night by the finance committee.

In addition 10 firemen, five policemen and an average of one employee of every other department of the city will lose their jobs if plans of the finance committee are consummated.

The drastic cuts in personnel, made tentatively by the committee, are recommended as an alternative to a blanket salary cut in order to balance the finance sheet.

Although Savage was not mentioned by name in the cuts from the city attorney's department, it was understood generally that he is the junior official of the legal advisory staff he would be the one to go.

The finance committee Monday recommended its efforts to balance the 1934 finance sheet and in session Monday night the pruning knife was inserted into every municipal department.

The budget, however, was not yet in balance and continued sessions are in prospect until contemplated expenditures are brought within the anticipated revenue for the year.

A discrepancy of about $50,000 remained when the committee adjourned for the night.

Refusing to accept budget commission recommendations that 61 employees of various departments be slashed from pay rolls, including 21 firemen and 10 policemen, the committee voted to slash only 10 firemen and five policemen from the rolls and then began a systematic slash of approximately one job in each of the departments of the municipality. Even when completed, and if accepted by the mayor and council, the finance committee must prune another $50,000 from anticipated expenditures.

A new salary reduction appeared to be the only alternative after the meeting of the budget commission Monday morning at which $201,500 additional was anticipated, but which added only $147,050 to departments other than schools, after mandatory deductions for the educational system had been made.

It was said that a 4 per cent additional salary cut, applicable to non-school employees, would make up the deficit and would provide a balanced budget. The committee struggled, however, in an effort to obviate necessity for further salary slashes.

Wife of Bilbo Asks Separate Maintenance

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 8.—(AP)—A petition for separate maintenance and a "greater share" of ex-Governor Theodore G. Bilbo's $8,000 annual government salary was filed today in the Hinds county chancery court by his wife, Mrs. Linda R. Bilbo.

The Cook's MEAT NECESSARY IN DIET OF CHILD, EXPERT DECLARES

By RUTH CHAMBERS.

Since meat contains food elements essential for building new tissues, its importance in the diet of a growing child can hardly be overestimated. Protein, iron and phosphorus are supplied by the meat portion of his daily fare, which, of course, should include a variety of foods, cereals, fruits and milk.

Liver, kidney and sweetbreads are excellent sources of vitamins. Liver is especially valuable in the diet of the child, as it may be liver from veal, beef, pork or lamb.

Baby gets his meat in the form of broth or scraped beef. As soon as his teeth have made their appearance, he may have his meat several times a week—and does he relish it! It seldom requires much coaxing to get him to eat this food, which is so good to his taste and good for him at the same time.

By the time he has reached school age and from then on through the difficult adolescent years, a child needs meat once or twice daily, so foremost doctors agree.

Simple Preparation.
Meat for young children should be prepared simply. Stews are especially good, since they also contain vegetables. And the vegetables taste all the better because of the savory meat flavor. Broiled steaks, chops and roasts are also good for even the slightest member of the family, if he has learned to chew them properly.

There are delicious ways of preparing meats with the youngsters especially in mind. Following is a recipe which combines valuable elements of nutrition and is at the same time good enough to bring demands for second helpings.

Liver Spinach Mold.
One pound liver, 1-2 cup bread crumbs, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-2 cup cream, 2 cups cooked spinach, 2 hard-boiled eggs, 1 egg, beaten; salt and pepper.

Parboil liver five minutes. Chop finely and mix with bread crumbs. Add beaten egg, cream and seasonings. Place in a buttered mold, cover with a layer of cooked spinach which has been put through a colander and garnish with slices of hard-cooked eggs. Place in a pan of hot water and bake in a slow oven (325-degree Fahrenheit). When firm, unmold on a platter and serve with creamed tomato sauce.

Creamed Bacon and Potatoes.
One cup finely chopped cooked bacon, 2 cups potatoes, cut in dice; 3 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour, 3-4 cup milk, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, paprika, salt and pepper.

Add flour to bacon drippings and brown. Stir in the milk gradually and cook until thick and smooth. Add bacon and seasonings, then potatoes. Cover and heat over a very slow fire. Sprinkle with chopped parsley and paprika. Serve very hot.

Beef Broth With Vegetables.
Three pounds beef shin, 1-2 quarts water, 2 onions, sliced; 1 cup carrots, diced; 2 teaspoons salt; 2 cups raw diced potatoes.

Have meat cut in pieces, put in the soup kettle, and salt. Cover with cold water and slowly bring to a boil. Then simmer until meat is tender. Add potatoes, carrots and onions and cook until vegetables are tender. Strain and serve while hot.

Sweetbreads en Casserole.
One pair sweetbreads, 6 slices bacon, 1 cup meat stock, 4 carrots, 1 cup peas, 3 potatoes, salt and pepper.

Parboil sweetbreads 20 minutes in water to which 1 tablespoon vinegar and 1 teaspoon salt have been added for each quart. Drain and plunge into cold water. Detach strings or membranes. Partially cook carrots, peas and potatoes. Place sweetbreads in casserole and around them arrange sliced carrots, peas and diced potatoes. Add meat stock. Lay strips of bacon across the top, cover and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) until liver is tender.

Casserole of Liver.
Two pounds pork liver, sliced; 8 slices bacon, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 cup meat stock or water, salt, pepper.

Cover sliced liver with boiling water and allow to stand a few minutes. Drain and remove outside membranes. Lay half the bacon in baking dish. Roll liver in flour and season with salt and pepper. Place on top of bacon. Put remaining slices of bacon on top and cover with stock. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) until liver is tender.

Sweetbreads en Brochette.
One pair sweetbreads, 8 slices bacon, salt, pepper.

Parboil sweetbreads for 20 minutes in water to which 1 teaspoon salt and 1 tablespoon vinegar have been added for each quart. After draining, plunge into cold water to make them firm. Detach any strings or membranes. Cut sweetbreads into 1-inch squares. Arrange on skewers alternating with slices of bacon. Place on a broiler rack and broil slowly for 10 or 15 minutes. Serve on skewers.

Here is a way of serving sweetbreads which is a bit "fancier" and will make a hit with the youngsters.

Senate Group Okays House Liquor Taxes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The senate finance committee today approved the house liquor tax bill without any change in the rates.

Chairman Harrison said he expected to get the bill up in the senate soon.

He added that while there was no roll call, the committee sentiment was against a $2.80 a gallon tax on distilled spirits with a provision for returning 50 per cent of the tax to states that did not enact gallanage levies.

New Order Brings U.S. $2,810,000 in Gold

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau said today the treasury has received $2,810,002 in gold since his order of December 28 calling in all monetary stocks outside the federal reserve banks and Reconstruction Corporation.

Gold coin turned in amounted to $1,032,827, gold certificates to $1,737,600 and gold bullion to $19,575.

Morgenthau said the first week's operation of President Roosevelt's silver coinage brought into federal mints 1,157 ounces of silver. The San Francisco mint received 392 ounces and the Denver mint 765 ounces.

HACKETT KIDNAP CASE IS ORDERED TO TRIAL

Klutka's Death Not to Delay Action Against Alleged Aids.

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—(AP)—While the college-bred leader of an alleged kidnaping ring lay dead on a county morgue slab today, Judge Thomas J. Lynch rejected pleas for delay and ordered the immediate trial of two alleged confederates for the kidnaping of James Hackett, Blue Island gambler.

Police bullets Saturday had relieved Theodore "Handsome Jack" Klutka, former University of Illinois student, of the ordeal of trial for the capital offense of kidnaping for ransom.

But Judge Lynch refused to put off the trial of Frank Souder, of Benton, Ill., and Gale Swolley, of Peoria, and ordered a jury impaneled as the inquest into Klutka's death in a police trap was opened.

Attorney James M. Burke (read) strenuously to dodge an immediate trial. He first moved to quash the indictment on grounds the grand jury was illegally impaneled. Then he urged that public hysteria due to the killing of Klutka made trial of Souder and Swolley at this time unfair.

JOHN L. SIMS, 82, DIES IN HAPEVILLE

Former Mayor of Atlanta
Suburb Was Widely Known in County.

John Lawrence Sims, 82, a resident of Hapeville for 54 years, a one-time mayor of that city and widely known in Fulton county, died early Monday at his residence on North Central avenue, Hapeville, after an illness of several weeks. Mr. Sims and his wife observed the fifty-seventh anniversary of their marriage on December 21.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Hapeville Methodist church, of which he was a long-time member and steward. The Rev. B. V. Weathers will officiate. The body will lie in state at the church between the hours of 1 and 2 o'clock. Interment will be in Mount Zion cemetery. Harold H. Sims, undertaker of Hapeville, and a grandson of Mr. Sims, will have charge of the funeral and interment.

Mr. Sims was born in DeKalb county in 1852. He moved to Hapeville at the age of 28 and lived in a log cabin on the site of the present residence, which he built in 1880. Active in civic affairs throughout his long residence Mr. Sims served his city as mayor and for a period of years as a jury commissioner in Fulton county, a position from which he retired only two years ago.

Prominent in the activities of his church, Mr. Sims also was widely known as a singer. He led the singing in the Hapeville Methodist church for many years and organized and taught singing classes in schools throughout the state. He was a Mason and a member of the Junior Order U. A. M.

Surviving Mr. Sims are his wife; two daughters, Mrs. W. E. Campbell and Mrs. J. W. Nisbet, both of Hapeville; a son, Homer Sims, of McDonough, Ga.; eight grandchildren, including Harold H. Sims, and two great-grandchildren.

Former Senator Chases Burglar From Home

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 8.—(AP) White-haired J. W. Harreld, former United States senator from Oklahoma, snatched up a pistol and charged a burglar from his home early today.

"He must have been more surprised than I," said Harreld. "He ran from the dining room, stumbled over a chair and jumped out the window."

Minus his slippers, the ex-senator gave chase, but was outdistanced. Nothing was stolen.

MRS. MARTHA ALDRIDGE PASSES IN 94TH YEAR

One of City's Oldest Residents Was Member of Pioneer Family.

Mrs. Martha Crockett Aldridge, 93 years of age, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Oscar Lane, 1634 Pelham road, N. E., early Monday afternoon. Mrs. Aldridge was one of the oldest residents of Atlanta, having been born August 2, 1850. She probably was the oldest member of Druid Hills Baptist church, where she had been a member of the last 15 years.

The funeral will be conducted at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning from the Druid Hills Baptist church by Dr. Louis D. Newton, her pastor. Burial will be in the family lot at Westview cemetery.

Mrs. Aldridge was a descendant from two of Georgia's pioneer families, her father being David Crockett and her mother Temperance Daniel. She was born in Morgan county, near Madison. Early in her girlhood the family moved to Salem, Ala., where she attended school. In 1866 she was married to J. K. Aldridge, of Alabama and lived for some years at Salem. In her girlhood she united with the County Line Baptist church, near Salem.

Following her residence at Salem, the family moved to Columbus, Ga., where Mr. Aldridge died in 1901. Mrs. Aldridge later came to Atlanta and had resided with her daughter, Mrs. Lane, for the past 25 years.

She was an active member of the Druid Hills Baptist church until her recent illness. She is survived by one brother, E. J. Crockett, of Tallahassee, Ala.; two daughters, Mrs. N. H. Williams and Mrs. Oscar Lane, of Atlanta; one granddaughter, Mrs. R. H. Tarrant, of Atlanta, and four great grandchildren, Betty Anne and Robert L. Tarrant and Martha and Anne Roberts, all of Atlanta.

"IVAN THE TERRIBLE" TOPIC OF LECTURE

Mrs. Emma Garrett Morris will talk on Ivan the Terrible, of Russia, in Rich's bookshop this morning at 10 o'clock.

This is one of a series of lectures on "Famous Sovereigns in Recent Literature" to be given in January. This week's talk is to be based on Stephan Graham's book, "Ivan the Terrible."

This famous Russian ruler was born in 1330 and at the age of 17 became the czar of Muscovy. He was the first czar of Russia. Due to his conquests Muscovy secured dominion over Astrakhan, Kazan and west Siberia.

He set up a national assembly and in many ways distinguished himself as a ruler. His later years as a sovereign were marked by massacres and brutal excesses. Thence the name, "Ivan the Terrible," usually associated with him. These informal talks by Mrs. Morris are open to the public without charge.

JEREMIAH C. BURSON PASSES AT AGE OF 62

President of American Surgical Supplies, Inc., Was Widely Known Here.

Jeremiah C. Burson, 62, president of the American Surgical Supplies, Inc., died Monday at his residence at 1279 North avenue, N. E., after an extended illness. He had resided in Atlanta since 1895.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon from the Druid Hills Methodist church, of which Mr. Burson was a member and steward. Dr. John B. Peters will officiate. Pallbearers will be H. J. Smith, Edward Lynn, T. C. Burford, J. E. Powell, George H. Faus, and R. K. Cochran. The board of stewards of the Druid Hills Methodist church will form an honorary escort. Interment will be in Oakland cemetery, with Awtry & Lowndes in charge.

Mr. Burson was born in Athens, Ga. He was connected with the old Palmer Drug Company when he came to Atlanta in 1895 and later went with the Jacobs Drug Company. In 1911 he and Virgil Perryman organized Perryman & Burson, sellers of surgical supplies. When Mr. Perryman withdrew from the company Mr. Burson and H. J. Smith organized the American Surgical Supplies, Inc., with offices on Houston street.

Mr. Burson was a charter member of the Business Men's Evangelistic Club, known as the Billy Sunday Club. He was a member of the Druid Hills Golf Club.

Surviving Mr. Burson are his wife; two brothers, Brooks Burson, of Hartsville, S. C., and George D. Burson, of Lodi, Cal.; two sisters, Mrs. James W. Casper, of Winder, Ga., and Mrs. Thomas Day, of Cartersville, Ga.; two daughters, Mrs. M. D. Smith Jr., of Birmingham, and Mrs. Walter Wilson, of Atlanta; five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

50-YEAR SENTENCE OF $1,000,000 ROBBER REDUCED BY HALF

Joseph Urbaytis, train and mail robber extraordinary, Monday received a cut of 25 years in his 50-year sentence at the Atlanta penitentiary for participation in a million-dollar mail robbery at Toledo, Ohio, several years ago.

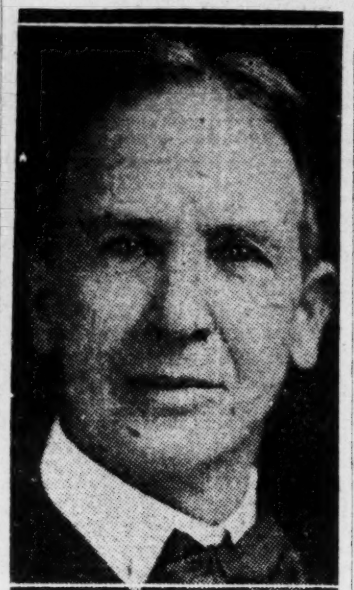

He was sentenced on 11 counts for taking as many mail sacks containing $1,000,000 or more from a truck in Toledo, Ohio. He contended, in asking for a writ of habeas corpus, that the indictment should have covered only one offense, instead of having been split up.

Judge E. Marvin Underwood, of the federal court, sustained this view, and ordered the sentence reduced to 25 years. Urbaytis has served about nine years. But for the fact that he led an insurrection at the federal prison in 1928 he would have had 17 years off for good behavior on his 50-year term, or 8 1/2 years for the reduced term. As it is, he has 16 years more to serve.

Urbaytis is a tall, slender man with a mild, affable manner. He was associated with the notorious Schultz gang, which outdid Jesse James in its terrorization of the northern part of the United States about 10 years ago.

Better Than Whiskey For Colds and Coughs

The sensation of the drug trade is Aspirinal, the two-minute relief for colds and coughs due to colds. Authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed, and proclaimed by the people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey or rock and rye.

All drug stores are supplied with the wonderful elixir, so all you have to do is to step into the nearest drug store, ask for a bottle of Aspirinal and tell the clerk to serve you two teaspoonfuls. With your watch 'in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel the distressing symptoms of your cold or cough fading away within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you to try it.

Take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and children, for Aspirinal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for children as well as adults. Quickest relief for catarrhal croup and choking up with phlegm at night.—(adv.)

The Center Leaves have the finest Tobacco Quality

that's why only center leaves are used in Luckies

The first thing people see and like about Luckies is how round and firm they are. The tobacco doesn't spill out and there are no loose ends to cling to lips. That's because we pack each and every Lucky full to the brim with long, even strands of the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos—only the center leaves. Not the top leaves—because those are under-developed.

Not the bottom leaves—because those are inferior in quality. We use only the center leaves—because they are the mildest and fully ripe for perfect smoking. That's why Luckies always draw easily, burn evenly—and are always mild and smooth. So smoke a Lucky, a fully packed cigarette. And remember, "It's toasted"—for throat protection—for finer taste.

One feebly realizes the diminishing vision which occurs gradually with the passing years. Yet sight, more than any of the senses, yields to the destructive action of time.

Stealing upon one slowly, it is, as a rule, first apparent by the increasing distance the reader must hold his paper.

FORD V-8 TRUCK PRICES REDUCED

New lower first cost has now been added to low cost of operation and low cost of maintenance

Now for the first time an 8-cylinder, 75 horsepower truck is available for as little as $500. The Ford V-8. The truck that has proved itself in actual service—proved its power, speed, stamina and economy.

Economy of operation and upkeep is one of the outstanding features of the Ford V-8 engine. Most "8's" have been big engines, designed for use in heavy, expensive units. But the Ford V-8—compact, simple, easily and inexpensively serviced—has shown that high power can be had at very small cost. The carefully kept records of thousands of owners establish remarkably low figures not only for gasoline and oil consumption but for service and repairs. It is the most economical Ford engine ever built.

The new low prices add another important economy factor. Today, more than ever, the Ford V-8 is the logical truck to help your business show a profit. The nearest Ford dealer is ready to help you select the Ford unit best suited to your business.

four event begins, and on Friday the bridge world will witness something new in kibitzers—a giant robot which will flash hands and play to an audience outside the playing room.

One surprise entry was that of Whitney Cary, bridge editor of The Atlanta Constitution, one of the four from Atlanta who created a sensation in the recent Vanderbilt cup matches by eliminating the formidable team captained by P. Hal Sims.

Cary was teamed unexpectedly with Commander Winfield Liggett Jr., who was Sidney Lewis's partner in their famous marathon with the Culbertsons two years ago.

Among the experts, Mr. and Mrs. Culbertson both were entered, as were Michael Gottlieb, Howard Schenken, David Burnstein, Oswald Jacoby, Theodore A. Lightner, Albert Morehead, Baron Waldemar Von Zedtwitz, Louis Watson, Sam Fry Jr. and others.

The danger of an insecure double was illustrated on the following, whereon Cary and Commander Liggett got the small but important plus of 110 over B. Jarmel and A. Morse, of New York.

M'CORD ASKS ELECTION AS 'BAMA GOVERNOR'
MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 8.—(AP) Judge Leon M'Cord, of Montgomery, democratic national executive committee, today formally announced his candidacy for the governorship of Alabama.

Judge M'Cord's announcement was made public from the bench in Montgomery circuit court this morning, and he shortly afterward issued a formal statement that said in part: "The public schools must not close. The program of President Franklin D. Roosevelt must be carried out in Alabama. It must not be trusted to those who in the past have not stood with him, who have not fought his battles, and who sought to defeat and destroy him, and who would assassinate his program."

REED INTRODUCES LEGION PROGRAM

Introduction Believed Beginning and End of Measure's Progress.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The American Legion's legislative program was put forward in the senate today by Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, in the face of indications that introduction spelled both the beginning and end of that measure's progress.

Neither in the budget nor in conference with democratic leaders has there been any apparent intimation that Mr. Roosevelt planned any substantial changes in the slashes made in veterans' compensation last session through the economy act.

The introduction of the Legion proposals by Reed, up for re-election this year, were a surprise to some members who recalled he fought bonus proposals and voted consistently against most compensation legislation.

"It is appropriate to say," Reed told the senate, "that at no time since the Legion was organized has it shown such moderation in its requests."

The Legion's program embodied four points. They were:

1. Restoration of the definition

MACON, Ga., Jan. 8.—(AP)—A special traffic squad was ordered out here today to handle the crowds of curious who visited the Indian mounds which are being excavated east of of service connection as it stood before the economy act.

2. Restoration of the old rates for service-connected disability cases, including $100 a month for total permanent disability.

3. Freer use of veterans' hospitals but only for men who lack funds for other hospitalization facilities.

4. The same pension rate—$15 a month—for widows and orphans of World War veterans that veterans of the Spanish War get under the economy act.

The Legion has intimated that the program would cost around $80,000,000 yearly—$60,000,000 for the first two proposals; nothing for the third and an average of $19,250,000 for the fourth during the first five years.

House leaders said they understood the president had reserved no place on his schedule for the four-point program and that any modification of the economy act as regards veterans would be minor in character.

SOLONS QUESTION SANDERS ELECTION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The house election committee investigating the Kemp-Sanders contest from the sixth Louisiana congressional district questioned the legality of both elections as it opened hearings today.

J. Y. Sanders Jr., anti-Long leader in the district, and his attorney, Edward Rightor, of New Orleans, another anti-Long leader, were questioned as to the legality of Sanders' election and that of Mrs. Bolivar E. Kemp, who was elected with the support of Senator Huey P. Long.

Sanders was elected at a citizens' election December 27 after Mrs. Kemp had been elected December 5 at an election called by the governor without the holding of a primary.

Mrs. Kemp was not present at today's hearing, but Robert E. Scott, Washington attorney, informed the committee he would represent her interests.

The state of Louisiana was represented by George M. Wallace, assistant attorney-general for Louisiana and Long's former secretary. Wallace was expected to testify tomorrow.

Both Sanders and Rightor declared the Kemp election was illegal on the grounds the district democratic executive committee was without authority to nominate Mrs. Kemp, and that Governor Allen's call for the election was void because no provision was made for a primary.

Sanders said the district committee must call a primary because that is the only way candidates may qualify. Asked if his election provided for a primary, he replied in the negative and added "only the district committee has authority to call a primary."

Asked if other candidates had not refused to enter his election because they believed it illegal, he replied he had seen "their statements in the press that they did not believe it legal."

One of the "outside" candidates, John S. Nelson, messaged the committee today urging it not to recommend the seating of either Mrs. Kemp or Sanders.

ATLANTA THRILLED AT OPERA OPENING

lover, Rhadames, to flee with her to Ethiopia, and when Amneris, the king's daughter, who also loves Rhadames, discovers them as the three are about to flee.

Unequalled loveliness pervaded the singing of the final scene, when Rhadames is in the tomb and Aida joins him to die with her loved one.

Charlotte Ryan, soprano, portrayed Aida, the slave girl, with sympathetic interpretation. Her voice grew in beauty as the opera progressed, and she did her finest singing in the last two acts.

Aves Successful.

Dreda Aves, mezzo-soprano, sang the role of Amneris, daughter of the king, with true regal glory. Her voice is richly vibrant and glorious, and her histrionic ability is exceptional, making a perfect combination which she used to advantage.

Edward Rausome, tenor, sang the role of Rhadames, instead of Giuseppe Radaelli, as programmed, with fine dramatic ability coupled with a powerful and at the same time beautiful voice.

Giuseppe Interrante replaced Pasquale Amato, who was ill, in the role of Amonasro, Aida's father, and he did it so satisfactorily that few in the audience realized that they were not hearing the famous Amato.

Nino Ruisi, basso, was the high priest, employing a sonorous bass voice in outstanding manner. Luigi Molle, also basso, acted the part of the King of Egypt with royal dignity and impressiveness in deep bass tones.

Ballets Graceful.

The ballets were pervaded with exquisite grace, Lonia Nestor being the premiere danseuse of the corps de ballet.

Atlanta music lovers have been reading the glowing reports of the successes of the Chicago Opera Company in the New York papers for some time, but it took Monday's performance to bring them to a realization that the reviews were not glowing, but a truthful report of the excellence of the Chicago Opera Company's performances. With "Aida" as an example of the caliber of the productions that are to follow all week—and it surely is—no music lover without reach of Atlanta should miss any that are to follow. Tonight's presentation will be Gounod's "Faust." The curtain will rise promptly at 8:15 o'clock.

Story of the Opera "FAUST"

Charles Gounod's "Faust," an opera in five acts, will be presented at 8:15 o'clock this evening in the city auditorium by the Chicago Opera Company.

Baccolini will be the conductor. As the curtain rises, Faust, sung by Lawrence Power, heavy and bent with age, sits studying in his shabby, dimly-lit room. Renowned philosopher though he is, he is weary of life and its intricacies. He decides to drink a vial of poison, but he is stayed by the sound of youthful voices outside in the early dawn. His envy of youth overpowers him, and he curses his age and calls on Satan to help.

Mephistopheles, played by Nino Ruisi, appears dressed as a dashing cavalier. Much bargaining follows during which Mephistopheles promises Faust youth if he will sign away his soul. Faust agrees after he is shown a vision of the lovely Marguerite (Annunziata Garretto) and is transformed into an impetuous youth.

Act II is one of gayness and festivity, a happy crowd assembled to celebrate at the "Kermess," the fair of a German village. Valentine, Marguerite's brother, played by Giuseppe Interrante, is about to depart for the front, and Siebel, sung by Carlotta Bruno, friend of Valentine, and in love with Marguerite, promises to be Marguerite's protector while he is away. Mephistopheles and Faust join the crowd, and Mephistopheles entertains them with his antics and songs, and finally drinks a toast to Marguerite. Infatuated, Valentine rushes at him with his sword, but Mephistopheles protects himself in a magic circle. Valentine senses his identity and lifts his sword to slay a cross, before which the Evil One shrinks in terror. The crowd soon resumes their gay dancing, and Marguerite enters, coming from church. Both Siebel and Faust offer to accompany her home, but she refuses.

The third act is in Marguerite's garden. Siebel leaves a bouquet of flowers on Marguerite's doorstep to speak his love, but when he is gone Faust and Mephistopheles place a casket of jewels by the side of the door. Marguerite enters the garden and sits at her wheel and spins and sings. Presently she discovers the casket of jewels, and there follows the ever lovely "Jewel Song." Martha, a comic neighbor, enters to exclaim over the precious gems. Later Faust and Marguerite, while Mephistopheles takes care of Martha, become entranced with their rapidly growing love, and there follows ecstatic and impassioned love music.

Act IV reveals Marguerite in misery and remorse, deserted by her lover. Valentine returns from war. Mephistopheles, in insulting manner, serenades Marguerite, and Valentine rushes out on him to receive a mortal wound. As he is dying Valentine curses Marguerite as the cause of his death and denounces her.

In Act V Mephistopheles and Faust find Marguerite in prison, condemned to death for having killed her child. Faust beseeches her to come away with him, for they are in time to save her, but she is delirious and too far beyond earthly help. "Condemned," cries Mephistopheles, seizing Faust and dragging him into the fiery abyss. Celestial harmonies reply "Saved," as the soul of Marguerite soars heavenward.

DEPOSITOR

STOCKHOLDER BORROWER

The Eternal Triangle of BANKING

No MAN can serve two masters," is a familiar quotation—but it has little place in the scheme of things for the banker. He has three, and their demands must be carefully weighed and balanced to keep them all happy. It takes straight, level-headed thinking and action, since often the interests are conflicting.

The sound banker must balance the natural demands and expectations of DEPOSITOR—STOCKHOLDER—BORROWER. And to these must always be added the best interests of the community.

The DEPOSITOR wants safety and service. Whether the stockholder gets a dividend income from the bank does not concern him nearly as much as the fact that his money is safe and always available when he wants it.

On the second side of the triangle is the STOCKHOLDER. He wants and expects a return on his investment. To yield too much on his side might mean a tendency on the part of the banker to loan too freely and to charge excessive interest rates.

Finally comes the BORROWER. Naturally, he wants the greatest possible amount of credit at the lowest possible rate. To give him too much credit endangers the interest of the depositor. Too low an interest rate may mean no return to the stockholder.

Such is the banker's eternal triangle, and you and I as the public at interest, can be proud of our bank and its careful operation when we find DEPOSITORS, STOCKHOLDERS AND BORROWERS, grouped as a happy satisfied family.

Which fact is certainly true in our bank.

BLOOD MONEY

BY IRVIN S. COBB

WHAT WAS GONE BEFORE. Uncas Cresap and his Chinese servant are found dead in the upper room of Cresap's house on Kettle pond, near the eastern end of Long Island. Gilbert Jonathan Redd, Cresap's stepbrother, keeps a written private account of developments in the case. A blow on the forehead from a slender, sharp-edged implement killed Cresap. The cause of the Chinaman's death is not apparent. Captain Bray, a special investigator, and an old friend of Redd's, receive the news from the district attorney's office in solving the crime. Redd is a former police reporter. Florence Dane, Cresap's niece and an orphan, lived with him. Redd was fond of Florence's mother. He bought a home near Cresap's in order to protect Florence. Cresap made his fortune in the far east. Redd freely admits to being a gambler, a debauchee. The Chinaman and a dwarf, Sabin, are the most important of the servants, and there seemed to be some secret bond between them and their employer. Bray calls the members of the household together for questioning. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XIV.

"I give it my unequivocal judgment that this individual died, roughly, at or about midnight, of apoplexy, possibly superinduced by a very intense nervous system. I incline to believe death in his case ensued shortly after the death of Uncas Cresap but very shortly after. I base my opinion as to the direct cause of death upon a variety of things—upon the position of the body as I first saw it, upon the congestion of the face, and most of all upon the disclosure under dissection of a blood clot in the left lobe of the brain. This man was of an advanced age, obviously frail and depleted, and, moreover, the cadaver showed abundant proof that he was an opium addict and had been so for a considerable number of years—conceivably was an habitué throughout his adult life. There were no marks or contusions to indicate violence or injury outwardly inflicted. Finally, there was this pathological indication—not an indication, but an absolute condition—to support the theory of an apoplectic seizure: The deceased would be predisposed to a sudden and fatal attack of such a nature by reason of isolated plaques, as we term it, or, stating it differently, hardened and contracted sections in the arterial system. Now these plaques unmistakably revealed that the deceased was a sufferer of long standing from, so-called tertiary infection, or syphilis.

Here Cap'n Ab Bailey, the foreman of the jury, balked him with a great swoop of a great brown fist, which, as local history has it, was once upon a time potent to quell incipient mutiny on the high seas.

"I wouldn't go no further into that," he directed in a tone dulcet for him, but having in it the gusty emphasis of a gale blowing through the rigging. "Us men folks kin make out to figure out whither you're steering—and there's ladies present—yes, yes."

"Quite so, sir," assented Dr. Finch. "If you gentlemen understand what I'm driving at, that I take it, is sufficient for all purposes."

After Coroner McIntosh had corroborated Dr. Finch's technical statements, the jurors, accompanied by the coroner, filed into the town clerk's office. As they passed where Motley sat he handed the foreman a memorandum which he had just scribbled on a scrap of note paper.

Almost at once Cap'n Ab led his flock back to where we waited, and in a placid bellow he read the written verdict. The findings were under two headings, as follows:

First, that Wong Gee came to his death through natural causes.

Second, that Uncas Cresap came to his death at the hands of some person or persons to the jury unknown, through an act of willful and atrocious murder.

And that was that.

Bray, who sat by me, in an aside made an annoyed comment:

"As though we weren't already moving heaven and earth and the radio to locate that same party!" he rumbled in my ear. "I tell that cocksure young whippersnapper Motley there's no need of our tipping our mitt any more than we have to—that we can sort of slur over what's rightly uppermost in our thoughts before this here pack of chatterboxes. But, no, he must go showing his beak in, just to show how important he is."

Three Americanized Chinamen attended the hearing as emissaries of the tongue to which Wong Gee belonged. The corpse was formally surrendered to them and they are taking it up to the city tonight, and so I presume old Wong's brittle bones in a red lacquered box eventually will go back to China. As for the other body, it will be disposed of tomorrow at Clear Brook cemetery, up the island, and then the ashes are to be shipped down to Lumber Center, the town in North Carolina where the family vault of the Cresaps is. This arrangement suits me. Whatever by shortcomings may be I flatter myself hypocrisy is not among them, and it would put a strain upon me to stand by with a straight and decorous look on my face and see Uncas Cresap's mortal clay shoved under the earth the surface of which I do here solemnly declare he was unfit to encumber.

The notes issued at the evening papers, which arrived about the time the inquest adjourned, attested with front page displays that today's chief development broke in New York. Mr. Bodin's firm gave out a comparative analysis setting forth significant differences between the old will and testament which, without successful litigation, must be accepted as Uncas Cresap's last will and testament, and the newly drafted will which, as things stand, and so far as the probate's files are concerned, is worth less than the paper on which its clauses are written.

By the terms of the first will, which is dated November 8, 1930, nearly two years ago, he unreservedly bequeaths to his beloved niece and ward, Florence Dane, the realty here at Bridge-ton; stocks, bonds, mortgages, notes and other securities, together with cash on hand, approximately in value—the lawyers estimate—$850,000, also an itemized assortment of jewelry and gems, including five bracelets, one diamond and emerald necklace, sundry jade ornaments, some unmounted stones and five uncut rubies, of an estimated value, by present prices, of about $55,000 more.

In the newer will he had lived to sign it, he would have cut her off with $500. The estate, except for certain designated gifts of money out-right, would go in equal bequests to various distant kinspeople—cousins mostly—living in the south and west. Of these specified gifts there are in both wills just two and in both they

Mercury to Tumble, Freezing Temperatures Coming Today

A decided drop in temperature from 40 degrees early Monday to below freezing this morning was forecast Monday by the weather bureau.

A temperature range of 30 to 50 degrees was expected. The weather will remain cloudy, and although snow is not expected, it will be a contrast to the comparatively mild conditions of the past few days. Today's weather will remind Atlantans that winter is putting in a belated appearance.

In the west and southwest, the bureau reported, the weather was clearing and the barometer rising, which did not indicate further rain or snow here.

Monday's temperature was 40 to 48, and the skies were overcast. There was no rain, but the air was raw, with little variation in temperature. January is the month of snow, and it frequently happens that there are snow flurries earlier.

The cold snap will prevail all over north Georgia, the bureau said, but was not expected to last due to more moderate conditions noted in the rest of the country.

NORTHWEST WIND BRINGS SOUTH'S COLDEST WEATHER
NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 8.—(P)—A blustery northwest wind today blew the coldest weather of the winter into the deep south, bringing the season's first snow to central Arkansas and east Tennessee and promising freezing temperatures to the gulf coast line tonight.

It was a general visitation, blanketing the Dixie states after weeks of unusually mild weather in most of the southern tier. Generally lower temperatures signaled the approach of the cold wave last night and early this morning and after the temporary mid-day rise, thermometers throughout the area started a steady decline late today.

It went to freezing at Little Rock during the day as the winter's first snow fell there and in north central and northwestern Arkansas and the area had a forecast for a low of 25. Still further south, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Texas, had fair skies as the thermometer dropped and freezing temperatures into the far southern portions of these states was in prospect, with readings as low as 24 in the interior.

Eastward, except for Florida, freezing or below was the forecast and the skies were cloudy with threatening rain in Georgia and the Carolinas and snow in Virginia and Kentucky. North Florida was promised rains and a thermometer reading probably above freezing.

Weather bureaus indicated the wave may be short lived, forecasting rising temperatures by tomorrow.

Some of the south's colder spots during the day were Dallas, 26; Fort Smith, Ark., 26; Houston, 32; Little Rock, 32; Memphis, 34; Nashville, 36; and Shreveport, La., 38.

2 GEORGIANS NAMED FOR RHODES HONORS

University of Georgia, and Mr. Gordon is at Yale University. A Georgia committee of which Robert C. Alston, Atlanta attorney, was chairman, selected them from 12 candidates examined several days ago and recommended them to the district committee as best qualified for the requirements of character and scholarship laid down by the founder of the scholarships, the late Cecil Rhodes, developer of South Africa.

Each of the winners is entitled to two years' residence at Oxford University, England, and a third year there or a university in Europe. The monetary value of the scholarship is approximately $2,000 a year.

Of much greater value, however, will be the opportunity to study in the atmosphere which is Oxford and later to pursue the student's particular interest there or under the guidance of teachers in continental Europe. Cecil Rhodes desired to further understanding and co-operation between the two great English-speaking peoples, established the scholarships and decreed that each year 32 young men adjudged to be pre-eminent qualified should be afforded the opportunity to live and study in England.

The eight districts are established in this country and each year four students are selected in each district from all who are nominated for consideration. Other qualities than scholarship are considered in making the final selections. Breadth of vision, capacity for development, interest in athletics, all are scanned.

Georgia was the only state to send both its candidates among the winners, a circumstance that was a tribute not only to the students themselves but to the state committee which chose them from among the 12 young men nominated for their consideration.

The final examination of candidates was oral and continued throughout the day. Competition was so keen that some of the students were called in for a second interview.

Serving with Dr. Jones on the committee were E. W. Moore, of Atlanta; R. K. Gooch, of Charlottesville; J. A. Rice, of Black Mountain, N. C., and J. E. Norwood, of Columbia, S. C.

CANNON ORDERED TO STAND TRIAL

said Justice Sutherland in the decision, "the choice of means to that end presents a question primarily addressed to the judgment of congress. . . . It can be seen that the means adopted are really calculated to attain the end, the degree of their necessity, the extent to which they conduce to the end, the closeness of the relationship between the means adopted and the end to be attained are matters for congressional determination alone. . . ."

"Congress reached the conclusion that public disclosure of political contributions, together with the names of contributors and other details, would tend to prevent the corrupt use of money to affect election. . . . The verity of this conclusion reasonably cannot be denied. When to this is added the requirement . . . that the treasurer's statement shall include full particulars in respect of expenditures, it seems plain that the statute as a whole is calculated to discourage the making and use of contributions for purposes of corruption."

McReynolds Dissents.
One member of the court, Justice McReynolds, dissented from the majority opinion delivered by Justice Sutherland. McReynolds agreed with the District of Columbia supreme court that the indictment against the churchman and Miss Burroughs did not state clearly the crime of which the two were charged.

The indictment was not returned until 1932. The district court's ruling that it was defective was reversed by the District of Columbia court of appeals and that decision was finally upheld today.

The failure of his committee to report all the $86,000 from Jameson led him to enter on that phase of the churchman's political activities. Representative Tinkham, republican, Massachusetts, denounced Bishop Cannon on the house floor and out of a statement Tinkham issued later came a libel suit, but the representative never went to trial.

The case goes back to the District of Columbia supreme court, which must set a date for the trial.

This statement was issued tonight by Bishop Cannon:

"Now that the supreme court has clarified the situation by striking out eight counts in the indictment, I desire a prompt trial on the two remaining counts."

MILK WAR BRINGS WAVE OF VIOLENCE

made to halt trains carrying milk from Wisconsin.

The Pure Milk Association, organization of 18,000 militant farmers, announced progress was being made to settle the strike. All Chicago dairies were sent copies of a contract under which they would agree to pay a basic price of $1.85 a hundred for milk.

The strike expired a strike settlement within a few hours with general acceptance of the new contract, said A. M. Krah, director of public relations for pure milk.

It was believed the association might permit dairies signing the contract to receive milk. Under such a system, representatives of the association probably would ride with trucks of certain companies hauling milk into the city.

Outside of Chicago, the strike was highly organized with pickets and roving "flying squads" of farmers keeping in contact by telephone to enforce the strike.

A score of union milk wagon drivers was arrested, but most of them speedily released in Chicago. They were charged with interfering with deliveries by cut-rate dairies employing non-union drivers.

WALLACE REVISES POLICY ON MARKETING AGREEMENT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(P)—Secretary Wallace today announced a new policy in milk marketing agreements intended to emphasize efforts to bolster prices which producers receive.

It ends administration efforts to enforce the prices received by distributors and retailers.

The secretary said that new marketing agreements will be formulated in cities where agreements are already in force and changes would be made in agreements which have not yet been placed in force.

In some markets where producer-distributors handle a large volume of milk no minimum resale prices will be included.

Since retail price schedules are not to be established Wallace said consumers would be protected against abnormal price increases by the right which the administration will reserve to step in and establish maximum prices.

Important points in the new policy were listed as permanently higher prices for producers, maintenance of a balance between prices of fluid milk and butter, cheese and other dairy products, and recognition of the principle of production control to sustain higher prices generally.

rates, set up avowedly to meet motor carrier competition on certain articles and between certain points, will be taken up later.

Gwaltney, counsel for the Central of Georgia, Seaboard, Atlantic Coast Line, Georgia railway, Atlanta, & West Point, and Atlanta, Birmingham & Coast, made the opening statement on behalf of all lines.

He said the Class 1 railroads in Georgia were barely earning operating expenses, and were not in position to stand a rate cut.

Georgia rates, he said, are in line with those in force throughout the south, and no reason for a differential in favor of Georgia has arisen since the schedules were set up in 1928.

The lower rates in eastern and central territory, the attorney said, are justified by greater density of traffic there, with resulting lower costs per ton.

After Gwaltney's statement the carriers placed J. S. Tassin, of Washington, chief statistician for the Southern system, on the stand to present and discuss two trunksful of exhibits.

The greater part of his testimony on the opening day consisted of groundwork figures, starting out with valuations of railroads based on the inventories made by the interstate commerce commission in 1915 and 1916, plus additions since then.

Tassin's tables were principally comparisons with conditions in 1926, toward which level he said the carriers were striving, with the national administration, to return.

His tables showed that the 10 Class 1 roads in Georgia earned an average of 5.53 per cent in 1926, and dropped steadily to 1.36 per cent in 1931 and 0.64 per cent in 1932. He had no 1933 figures on that point. In the same years, he said, earnings of major lines in eastern territory dropped from 5.51 per cent to 1.70.

Mr. Murphy was expected to present the petition for dissolution of the order today. The commissioner indicated that if the order is dissolved he will take steps to carry out Governor Talmadge's order to him to separate Dr. Sutton from the department.

State to Ask Judge To Void Sutton Writ

Commissioner of Agriculture G. C. Adams Monday called upon Assistant Attorney-General B. D. Murphy to ask Judge John B. Hutchison to dissolve his order temporarily restraining the commissioner from interfering with Dr. J. M. Sutton's conduct of the department's veterinary division.

Mr. Adams was expected to present the petition for dissolution of the order today. The commissioner indicated that if the order is dissolved he will take steps to carry out Governor Talmadge's order to him to separate Dr. Sutton from the department.

Dr. Sutton was dropped from the pay roll January 1, but sought the aid of the courts in an effort to retain his job, announcing that he planned to serve whether or not he received a salary. His equipment was removed from his offices and he obtained temporary space in another section of the department. Governor Talmadge, citing a section of the 1931 reorganization act, which gives him authority to assume control in the event there is a dispute over authority, assumed that control Saturday when he instructed Mr. Adams not to recognize Dr. Sutton further.

MR. MARSTON IS WAITING—YOU FEEL ALL RIGHT, MISS SHIRLEY?

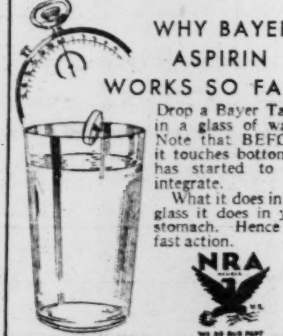

PERFECTLY WONDERFUL! THAT MARVELOUS BAYER ASPIRIN ACTUALLY STOPPED MY HEADACHE IN A FEW MINUTES!

Don't Forget Real BAYER Aspirin Starts "Taking Hold" in Few Minutes

Here is quicker relief from pain—the fastest safe relief—it is said, ever known. This is due to a scientific discovery by which BAYER Aspirin starts "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

The illustration of the glass here tells the story. A Bayer tablet starts to disintegrate or dissolve—go to work—almost instantly. This means quick relief from pain—fewer lost hours from headache, neuritis, rheumatism. And safe relief. For genuine Bayer Aspirin does not harm the heart.

When you buy, see that you get the genuine Bayer Aspirin. The best way is never to ask for aspirin by the name "aspirin" alone. But if you want Bayer Aspirin's quick relief always to say "BAYER Aspirin."

WHY BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

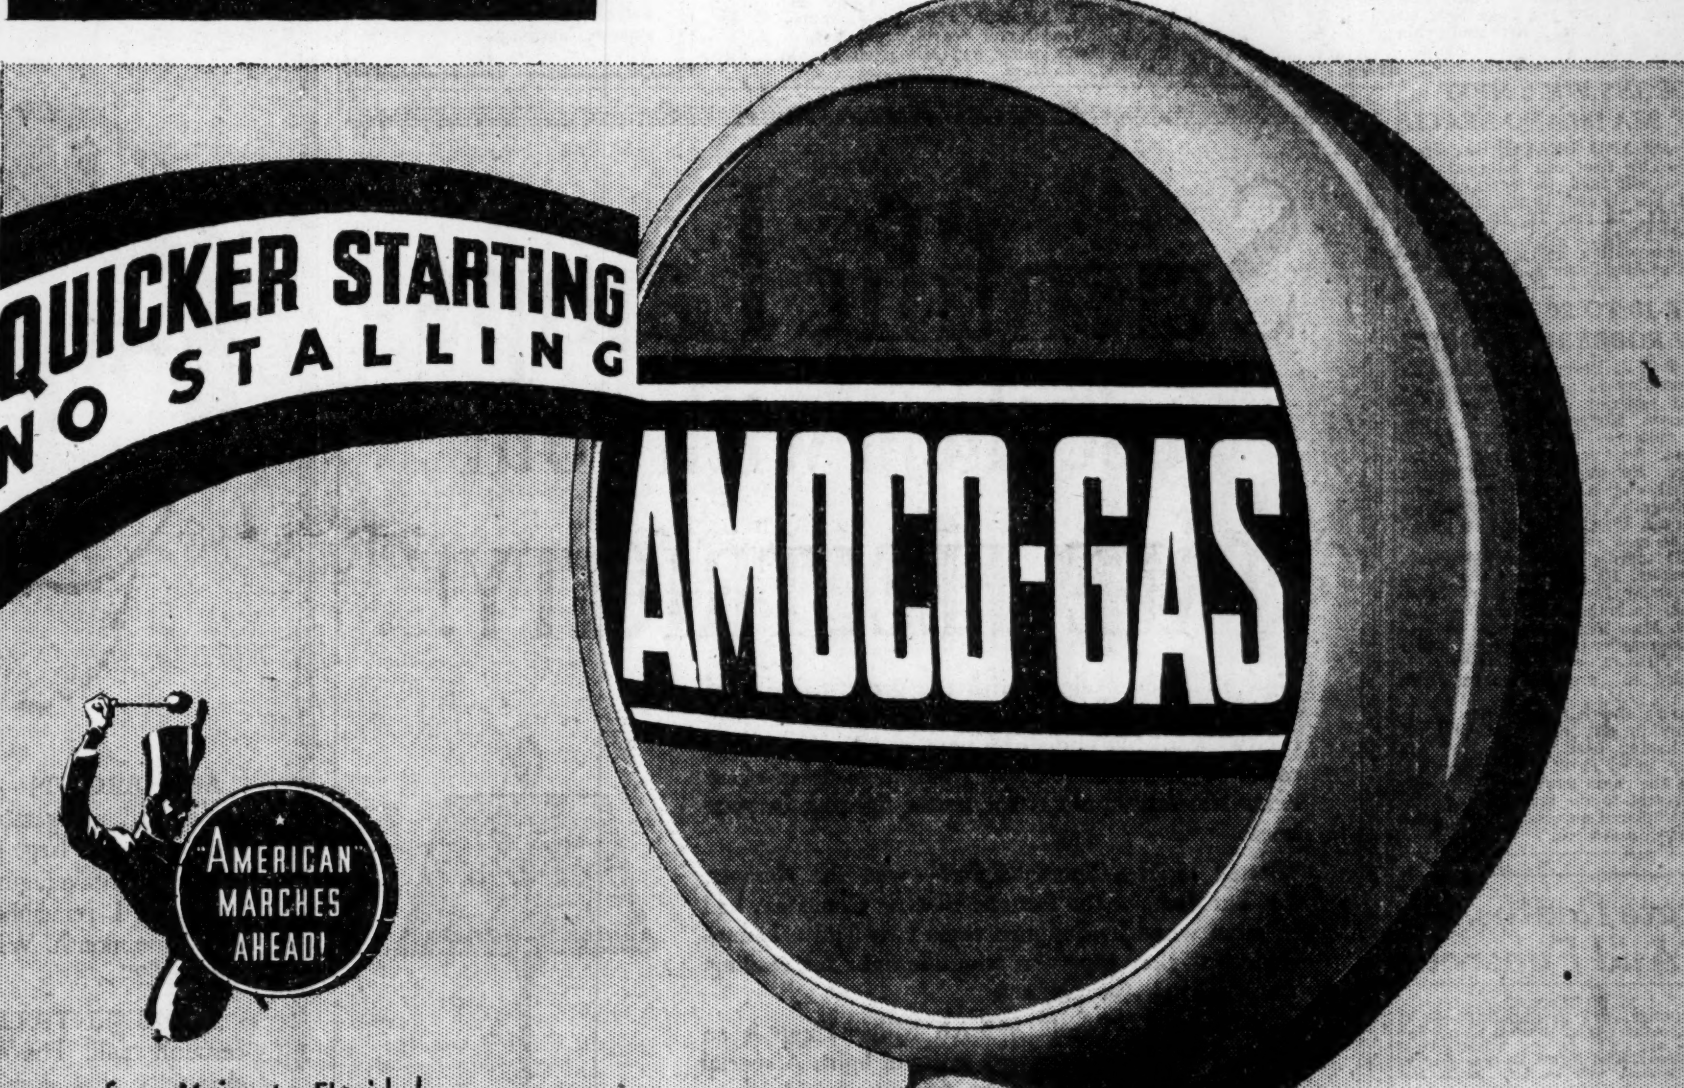

Drop a Bayer Tablet in a glass of water. Note that BEFORE it touches bottom, it has started to disintegrate.

What it does in this glass it does in your stomach. Hence its fast action.

5 GET 10 TO 20 YEARS ON ROBBERY CHARGES

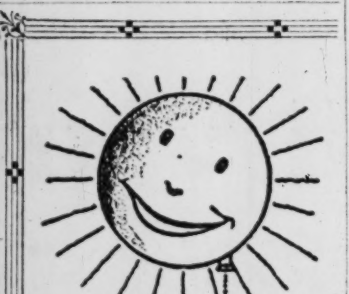

Judge C. J. Perryman, of Lincoln, presiding in an emergency division of superior court, disposed of five cases Monday when he imposed sentences of from 10 to 20 years on five negroes charged with robbery. Robert Cooper, Freeman Campbell and S. C. Evans, who pleaded guilty, and T. J. Williams and Rayan Ward, tried before juries, were the men sentenced.

Of 31 murder cases on the criminal docket, 10 have been placed on the calendar for the week of January 22, including the case of one woman, Mrs. Peggy Monroe, charged with the murder of Jack Cason. Judge C. C. Pittman, of Cartersville, is scheduled to preside during this week.

Clearing the jail cases also is under way in city criminal court, 37 cases having been disposed of on Monday, in which 21 defendants were sent to the chain gang, and one woman was sent to the state farm. Others were placed on probation or given suspended sentences.

Better Pasture Lands are Sought By South Georgia County Agents

By CLYDE BEALE.
VALDOSTA, Ga., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Better pasture lands—something that is badly needed in south Georgia—may result from farmers contracting with the government to reduce tobacco and cotton acreages for 1934, if aims of county agents in this section are achieved.

Farmers have already contracted with the government to reduce their bright-leaf tobacco acreage for 1934 and the sign-up campaign to reduce cotton crops is now under way. County agents are urging farmers to plant lespedeza and other soil-building crops which also afford good pasturage on land they are taking out of tobacco and cotton production.

In view of the fact that cattle raising is becoming more important in this section, it has been pointed out that the best stock can be raised on good pasture lands. Blooded Herefords, Black Angus, Jersey and other breeds are becoming more numerous yearly in south Georgia as farmers build their herds.

Establishment of better pasture lands will do much toward improving the cattle industry in south Georgia, county agents claim. Lespedeza, which will thrive on lands on which most crops will not grow so well, is a clover-like plant which is good for cattle and hogs. Animals eat the tops of the plants and the roots furnish valuable plant food to the soil.

Many farmers of south Georgia have paid little attention to pasture lands and have counted on their herds to get the best food they can from woods and the open range. Lespedeza requires no cultivation and if it is sown in oat fields or where other crops will soon be used for grazing, the cattle will mash the seed into the soil by walking on it, county agents say.

TYBEE ISLAND WORK GETS ADVERSE REPORT

SAVANNAH, Ga., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Army engineers have adversely reported on an application for construction of beach protective works at Tybee island as a federal project.

The Savannah Press said it had been informed the engineers recommended that the project, for which $2305,000 was sought, be received with favorable consideration if the application is made "under provisions of the act for the construction of these works."

Tybee island, about 17 miles from Savannah, is occupied by the military reservation of Fort Screven. The army engineers reported an investigation disclosed that erosion on the island is creating a "serious" condition. At the present time the mean high water line is about 17 feet annually between 1900 and 1930 while between 1930 and 1933 in front of the town of Savannah Beach the mean high water line progressed from 50 to 100 feet.

"It would thus appear," the report stated, "that the work is desirable and in the interests of the town of Savannah Beach. However, the benefits to be derived from a project of this type are local and it does not appear that it should be adopted as a federal project."

SENTENCING OF NEU SCHEDULED TODAY

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Louis Kenneth Neu, 26, under conviction of the hotel room slaying on September 17 of Sheffield Clark Sr., Nashville (Tenn.) businessman, is scheduled to be sentenced to hang in criminal court here tomorrow morning.

Neu, jaunty soldier, sailor and night club singer, was convicted two weeks ago of beating Clark to death after a casual acquaintance, robbing him of about $50, and driving off in Clark's car to Jersey City, N. J., where he was arrested.

Neu's attorneys have announced that an appeal will be taken to the state supreme court.

MACON PETITIONS URGE BOND ISSUE

MACON, Ga., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Petitions are being circulated here asking that a bond issue be voted on for building storm and sanitary sewers costing $774,000.

The plan calls for the city to float a bond issue of $149,000, the federal government to provide the balance of $625,000. It was made public after a conference of citizens with Mayor Herbert I. Smart.

It was said approval of the project would provide work for all the unemployed in Macon and Bibb county.

SCREVEN MAN DIES IN AUTO ACCIDENT

WAYCROSS, Ga., Jan. 8.—(AP)—K. O. Morgan, of Screven, was killed and Dewey Huitt, Ben Davis and Britt Anderson, also of Screven, were injured in an automobile accident 20 miles north of here last night. The injured were in the Waycross hospital today.

Six Dive Into Tar Vat Trying to Aid Child

COLUMBUS, Ga., Jan. 8.—(UP)—James Teal, 6, fell into a big vat of tar here.

Douglas Teal, James' 11-year-old brother, and Louis Mills, 8, jumped in to help him.

Bert Teal, father of James and Douglas, and M. L. Robinson, the Mills boy's stepfather, jumped in to help the three boys.

Cries for help brought Dan Carter and Billy Brooks on the run and they dove into the vat in efforts to aid.

All seven finally were extricated by city police and underwent a scrubbing in tubs of water and alcohol at city hospital.

"Jimmie sure gummed the works," was all the elder Teal had to say about it.

REALTY TAX DROP SEEN IN COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, Ga., Jan. 8.—A drop of $400,000 in realty values for taxation purposes in Columbus was predicted at a special meeting of the city commissioners for an advance study of the city budget. Since 1930, a shrinkage in realty values has been evident each year and now amounts to several million dollars.

The tax rate in the city is 18 mills on a dollar. Of this six mills goes to the schools, for which the city acts as the collecting agent, four and a half are used to take care of the public or bonded indebtedness, one-fourth of a mill, each, goes for sewers and paving, and the remaining seven mills and business license taxes are used for operating expenses and equipment.

No. 3 of a series of advertisements explaining the benefits of your new electric rates

Mrs. Brown Discovers... Electric Cooking for two cents a meal

Mrs. Brown's electric bill has been averaging about $5.00 a month. She has an electric refrigerator, her only large appliance. But there are other uses she would like to make of her electric service. Listen while a power company representative explains how satisfactorily she can do it.

MRS. BROWN—"Since we got our electric refrigerator about a year ago—our first large appliance—our bill has been averaging around $5.00 a month. I remember that it was $4.97 last month. Will the new rates reduce it?"

REPRESENTATIVE—"They certainly will. The same amount of electricity that cost you $4.97 last month will drop to $4.57, a reduction of 40 cents a month. Not only that, but the new rate entitles you to use 31 kilowatt hours MORE electricity, absolutely FREE."

MRS. BROWN—"How do I get that free electricity?"

REPRESENTATIVE—"Simply by USING it. You get it free, any month when you use more electricity than you used the same month in 1933. You get that and your reduction, too. In this case, it amounts to one-third MORE electricity for 40 cents LESS money."

MRS. BROWN—"That certainly sounds interesting. But how do you suggest that I use my free electricity?"

REPRESENTATIVE—"My first suggestion, Mrs. Brown, is more lighting. It adds to the beauty of the home and, of course, it's the best safeguard against eye-strain."

MRS. BROWN—"I certainly don't want my children to strain their eyes. But how can I tell if they are getting enough light?"

REPRESENTATIVE—"That's one problem we can help you solve, Mrs. Brown. The Company has recently organized a Home Lighting division composed of young ladies who have made a study of the science of correct lighting. Their services are available to any of our customers without charge. Shall I have one of them come to see you?"

MRS. BROWN—"Please do. Now tell me how much an electric range would increase my electric bill."

REPRESENTATIVE—"I can only estimate that, of course, on the average amount of electricity used by ranges in homes already using them. On that basis, you could add an electric range to your present appliances and the extra electricity would cost you only about $1.35 a month more than you have been paying. You would then be getting more than TWICE as much electricity, but the increase in your monthly bill over what it has been in the past would be less than ONE-THIRD."

MRS. BROWN—"That would make my cost of cooking by electricity only about two cents a meal."

REPRESENTATIVE—"Yes. The new rates are so low no one need wait any longer to begin cooking electrically."

Mrs. Brown's FREE electricity will operate this cooker for over 90 hours—actual cooking time!

Mrs. Brown's FREE electricity will operate this food mixer more than 300 hours.

Mrs. Brown's FREE electricity will make waffles on this iron for more than 50 hours!

It sounds almost unbelievable, but it's true! Mrs. Brown's 31 FREE kilowatt hours of electricity would keep correct time on this clock for over 9,000 hours—nearly two whole years! But of course she doesn't have to use it all on one appliance; she can divide it up among several.

Tate-Bain Nuptials Are Announced

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 8.—Miss Kathryn Cannon, Tate became the bride of Walter Tate, of Baltimore, at a quiet ceremony solemnized Wednesday afternoon at the Church of the Ascension here. Rev. F. A. Parsons read the marriage service, which was witnessed by a small company of friends and relatives.

The lovely bride wore for the ceremony a satin costume of white and black crepe, worn with white hat and gloves. Her other accessories were black and a spray of fragrant gardenias adorned her shoulder.

Mrs. Tate is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eaton Tate, of Atlanta. She will be remembered by many friends there, where she received her education and made her home prior to moving to Washington three years ago. Her sisters are Miss Hortense Tate and Mrs. Jessie Albert Barrett.

Mrs. Tate's mother is Mrs. Nellie B. Tate, of Washington, formerly of Aberdeen, Scotland. His father is William Roderick Tate, also of Washington. The bride attended school in Baltimore, later continuing her studies in electrical engineering at Bliss Electrical Engineering school in Washington. She is connected with the electrical division of Emerson & Orme Company in this city.

After a short wedding journey Mr. and Mrs. Tate will be at home at 1228 I street, N. W., Washington.

Take Your Fat Off Your Mind!

Are you one of those people who are forever worrying because "everything they eat goes to fat?"

Then stop worrying right now—because here's a simple, easy, pleasant way to correct that condition, bring your weight down to normal. Without dieting, without exercises, without drastic purging!

For many years physicians the world over have known and prescribed as famous corrective for abnormal obesity. It has been taken with amazing beneficial results by thousands of women who were "too fat."

This corrective is the chief active ingredient of Marmola, prepared in tablet form by one of the leading medical laboratories of America. You simply take a tablet of Marmola 4 times a day, and within an ounce or two of relief is at hand.

It sounds miraculous, but thousands of women who have taken Marmola, as directed, might well tell you this story if they had the chance.

Since 1907, more than 20,000,000 packages of Marmola have been purchased—and what greater recommendation can be had?

Today—buy a package of Marmola, and start at once. You will soon experience Marmola's benefits. When you have gone far enough, stop taking Marmola. And you will miss the day when you first learned about this wonderful reducing agent!

Marmola is on sale by all dealers—from coast to coast.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

No Cooking! No Work! Real Saving!

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in more homes than any other cough remedy, because it gives more prompt, positive relief. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Syrup is easily made with 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. This gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money, and it's a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes fine.

Instantly you feel its penetrating effect. It loosens the germs and mucus, clears the air passages, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief in severe coughs. Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, used for generations for its healing effect on throat membranes. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

WOMEN

Turn dark "weak" days into "sun" days. Be strong, happy, Caridi, famous medicinal tonic. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Duce Submits Bill For Corporative Law

ROME, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini today gave his bill for a corporative law, remodeling Italy's economic life, to the senate along with assurance "it will not embarrass private initiative."

"On the other hand," he added, "it will prevent foolish waste of wealth that competition without quarter fatally implies."

One of the gravest questions ever accorded Mussolini in parliament was given him in the senate when he submitted the program which he was predicted, will eventually result in abolition of the chamber of deputies and effect other reforms in governmental structures.

Passage of the bill, which provides for self-government by the various groups of Italy's economic structure and collective management of production, is assured.

LANE DRUG STORES

Friendly Counsel BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I am the only daughter of two old tyrants who have always made me do just as they wanted me to do. I am in love with the only person who has ever been kind to me. He is five years older than I. My parents do not know of the love affair, though we are planning to get married as soon as his salary is big enough to support us both. I have to lie and sneak out to meet him, which makes me feel like a crook, though I am not doing anything wrong. Knowing how unreasonable my parents are, I dare not take them into my confidence. Though we are terribly in love, and have a very good time together, I feel that I am not permitted to come to the house. I need advice and sympathy and have nowhere to get it.

TWENTY YEARS OLD.

ANSWER: Wouldn't it be better to go to the mat with your parents over the question of your personal liberty than to slip out to meet your fiancé, when the slipping out makes you feel like a crook and compromises you in the eyes of outsiders? A couple with one child, their affection fastened on her, their hopes centered in her, their very lives revolving about her, are sometimes cruel to her in their devotion. They smother her in an effort to keep close to them and deny her liberty in their futile attempt to pre-empt every corner of her life. Pathetic as the parents' standpoint and infuriating from the girl's standpoint!

Every important religious belief incorporates some admonition to children about their duty to respect their parents. A young girl, no matter how she may have been repressed and restricted by her father and mother, owes them something better than to think of them as "old tyrants." And until she can bring herself to approach them in a more filial frame of mind she can't expect to gain her point in an argument.

It is certainly true that a girl of 20 should not be forced to lie and cheat in order to meet her fiancé. She would be perfectly justified in telling her parents the truth, namely, that she is in love, engaged to be married, and because of their lack of sympathy and understanding, she has felt it necessary to conceal the truth from them; but that she wants to take them into her confidence and ask that they give her the freedom to come to the house to see him. Then if they continue to be unreasonable she has done her duty and is no longer in the position of deceiving her parents.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

As popular as I can prove by the fact that I have a date every night with a different boy. But I am unhappy and the one thing I lack to make me happy is love. I met him in the summer and the second time he came he told me he was opposed to conventions. He said that when love came to a girl and she insisted on having an "off" she was cheating. I disagreed with him and told him nevertheless "hands off" was my policy and I would stick to it. He called me a Puritan and a prig. To get rid of him I promised him another date but instead of being at home to keep it I left a note for him saying that I didn't consider him a gentleman and only gentlemen knew how to treat ladies. Last week I sat out a dance with him and he asked me if I had changed my ideas. I told him I hadn't and he said, "Well, maybe I will change mine." I am crazy about him. Have I handled him in the right way and shall I stick to my guns?

FLUTTERING.

ANSWER:

If women were admitted to the army you should be able to get a high post for having brought to a successful conclusion a beautiful piece of strategy. The enemy is conquered and is eating out of your hand. Every move you made was right and well-timed. If all the poor foolish girls who are throwing up the white flag without even struggling against their enemies were to follow your example there would be a higher moral standard among the young people and more marriages.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I am an old man who reads your column and I have something to say about the question of marriage. I have come to the conclusion that many young people get married before they are acquainted with each other and they don't seem to have the right attitude toward marriage either. When I asked my wife to marry me I told her she was entitled to half of all I owned and owned I was to be the king and she the queen. The man who can't trust his wife to spend money while he himself is a free spender either doesn't love her or he didn't mean what he said when he promised to take her for better or for worse. When a man assumes to be Lord of All in his home and makes his wife his hired hand, it is his own fault. He has no right to divorce his wife after a few years, they should join a church that permits a man to have as many wives as he can support. Of course when a wife is guilty of infidelity that is another matter.

FOUR ARE SELECTED FOR RHODES HONORS

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Two youths from Oklahoma, one from Louisiana and one from Texas were selected for Rhodes scholarships from the Gulf division by the division committee late today.

The youths named are: Daniel J. Boorstin, Jr., Tulsa; George C. McGowan, University of Port Soreven, for a visit to the CCC camp at Indian Springs, and will return to Atlanta this afternoon. He leaves for Washington Wednesday morning. Dr. Fechner is stopping at the Georgian Terrace hotel.

Dr. Fechner said Monday that his tour of Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and eastern Florida has revealed that wonderful progress is being made, and that the CCC work is building up the morale of the workers.

FATAL STROKE FAILS TO HALT OPERATION

ROME, Jan. 8.—(AP)—In the midst of a delicate operation, a major of the Italian army, Dr. Gioacchino Triolo suffered a heart attack.

He continued, however, and saved the lives of Mme. Luisa Giorgi Soriano and her baby.

As he left the operating room he died.

Culbertson on Contract

An Interesting Cross-Ruff.

BY ELY CULBERTSON
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

In the recent regional championship event of the United States Bridge Association held in the city of New York as a preliminary to the United States Bridge Association Grand National events now in progress in that city, a number of very interesting deals were played. Among the most interesting was the hand below, in which A. Mitchell Barnes, a member of the team of four captained by Mrs. Culbertson, was able to make a contract of four spades due to his careful planning after the Opening lead. The hand was, of course, a break, and breaks in bridge as in life, whether at the circus or elsewhere, are laws unto themselves. The player in bridge who fails to permit freckles to develop as they should develop is storing up for himself lots of trouble. Fortunately Mr. Barnes, a close student of the game, has had plenty of experience with freckles.

The bidding:

East South West North
1♠ Pass 2♠ Pass
3♥ Pass 4♠ Pass

The bidding requires no particular comment. The contract of four spades is an entirely natural one to reach. South, in making the choice of an Opening lead, possibly did not take into consideration fully enough the bidding of his partner. However, the correct choice of an Opening lead with his holding is fairly difficult. His hand, of course, has the freckles of a diamond suit, which suggests a freckish distribution otherwise, but most players do not sense a freak with this style of holding, so South, safely enough, as he thought, opened the king of diamonds. The trick was won by Mr. Barnes with the ace, and he thereupon laid down the ace of hearts and discarded from Dummy a small club.

Thus played, through an appreciation of the probability of a freak distribution around the table, Mr. Barnes lost only the ace of clubs, one heart and one trump. Players sought to make the hand by drawing the trumps and establishing the club suit were inevitably defeated.

"TOMORROW'S HAND."

If East is Declarer at a contract of six spades and South opens the club trick, what is the most probable method of fulfilling the contract?

Dollar Continues Gains in Exchange

By The Associated Press.

The dollar resumed its upward trend in foreign exchange markets yesterday, uninfluenced by the domestic gold price which was left unchanged at $34.06 an ounce.

In London, the American unit advanced 3-5 cents to the pound sterling, at $207 1-2. A New York sterling finished at $209, off 1-2 cents from Saturday.

In Paris, the dollar was 12 cents times higher at an equivalent of 6.09 cents to the franc, while in New York the French unit closed .05 of a cent lower at 6.09 1-2 cents.

In terms of the franc at its final New York rate, the dollar was valued at approximately 64.31 per cent of parity, compared with 63.78 Saturday and 63.08 a month ago.

Price of gold 35 cents.

Price of pattern 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap coin carefully.

ISOLATION' POLICY DENIED BY BORAH

U. S. Must Be Free to Attack Own Problems, Senator Declares.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Senator Borah tonight reiterated his faith in the foreign policy of Washington and Jefferson and defied his critics to apply the term "isolation" to an aloof concentration upon America's own problems.

"It is not isolation, it is freedom of action," he said, addressing the council on foreign relations. "It is independence of judgment. It is not isolation, it is free government—there can be no such thing as free government if the people thereof are not free to remain aloof or to take part in foreign wars."

"People who have battered away or surrendered their right to remain neutral in war have surrendered their right to govern. In matters of trade and commerce we have never been isolationists and never will be. In matters of finance, unfortunately, we have not been isolationists, and probably never will be."

Never isolationists.

"When earthquake and famine, or whatever brings human suffering into any part of the human race, we have not been isolationists, and never will be."

"But in all matters political, in all commitments of any nature or kind which encroach in the slightest upon the free and unembarrassed action of our people or which circumscribe their discretion or judgment, we have been free, we have been isolationists. And this I trust we shall ever be."

That to accommodate our foreign policies to the demands or in the interest of other nations at the peril of our own security, is to invite contempt, and it seldom fails to earn a more substantial punishment."

Reviewing the Shows

Marcus' Stage Show, 'La Vie Paree,' Plays at Fox at Midnight Tonight

Tonight, at midnight, the show that everyone has discussed for weeks, the A. B. Marcus "La Vie Paree," goes on at the Fox theater for its one and only appearance in Atlanta.

This flesh and blood offering with, according to the advertising, 60 members in the company, is mostly girls. Marcus always makes a specialty of feminine allure whenever he puts on a show and, by all accounts, he has given his predilections full rein this time.

Chief among his pulchritude displays are Ha Cha San and La Fanette. The former is the girl who poses in the altogether, but covered entirely with vaseline and silver paint, that makes her look, again according to the bill, the part of "The Silver Goddess." And La Fanette claims, emphatically, that she is the one and only originator of the fan dance, which she will try to prove tonight by her ability as a fan wielder.

Others in the company include comedians, vocalists, dancers and girls, girls, girls. They must be good, because they are starting on a tour that is to last two years and take 'em all through the orient and way stations before they come back.

There are still a few good seats to be had, by applying at the special box office at the Fox good and early today. They have been selling like the proverbial hot cakes, so if you want 'em, go get 'em early.

Two and a half hours of the snappiest flesh and blood show of the day. That's what the advance man promises and we'll find out, tonight, whether he is truthful or—

Peaches Browning Week's Feature In Burlesque at Atlanta Theater

Peaches Browning is a tall, slender, quite a dancer, this time with a split and some effective back bends. Alma Stinson strips once again and the blonde, who is really the best of the soloists and strippers we've had yet, gets across in fine style with "How I Do It? Yes, Hey."

The Old Fashioned and the Spanish numbers are the best stage effects of the week, while Harry Curzon, a newcomer, proves he can do a good tango with his partner in the latter.

All in all, it's good, routine burlesque fare. But someone ought to give the tenor a couple of lessons in make-up.

Undoubtedly the Atlanta will draw lots of customers this week, because it is just the sort of show that a somebody like Peaches. But it must be noted that they'll find a good show, of the type that experience has proven is just the sort that burlesque patrons most enjoy.

There have been some changes in the line girls, some new ones this week intermingled with other more familiar faces and—figures. Pictures generously displayed as usual. Hap Farrell is still the funniest of the comedians, but he's aided and abetted by other by no means mean funmakers.

There is a girl who does some marvelous contortionist work, dressed a la devilette, in red tights, horns, tail and all. There is another girl—you remember her last week, she did the hoola in the South Sea number, who demonstrates once again that she

REPUBLICAN DEFICIT CLIMBS TO $191,475

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—A deficit on December 31 of $191,475.81 for the republican national committee was reported to South Trimble, clerk of the house, today by George F. Getz, treasurer.

This compared with a deficit of $188,494.19 on August 31, the beginning of the period covered by the report, and returned under requirements of the federal corrupt practices act.

Contributions from September 1 to December 31, 1933, were reported as $1,000,000 and expenditures $13,745. Payments made on notes during that time amounted to $5,700.

Slas H. Strawn, Chicago, was listed for a contribution of $1,000 through the Chicago office and $500 through the Cleveland office. The following contributions of $500 each were reported:

Everett Sanders, Ogden L. Mills and Getz.

The deficit was shown to include $57,800 in notes payable for money borrowed $10,000 for printing, and $128,820.00 in accounts payable. Impounded funds on deposit were reported at $2,700.90 and unrestricted cash on hand and deposit, $553.20.

Contributions from January 1, 1933, to the end of the year totaled $50,380.67, and expenditures, $98,698.79.

Yale Captain Here, Denies Team Took Football Lightly

Twelve young college students, distinguished for their mental gymnastics, took examinations yesterday in Atlanta seeking to determine which four would represent this region as Rhodes scholars to Oxford.

The interesting feature is that they must be, to compete in this examination, as agile physically as they are mentally.

In other words, the most notable scholarship in the world is based on athletics. So what?

Well, for one thing, the universities, in their hysteria about athletics and the bad, bad bogey man of "over-emphasis," are trying to abolish all scholarships which universities allow based on athletic achievement. And yet the highest scholastic award, a Rhodes scholarship, is based on athletic achievement. And the annual list of candidates contains many splendid athletes and students. Hundreds try for the honor each year.

I suspect that there is quite a lot of muttering in the faculty boards at the periphery of this fellow Rhodes, who insisted that no young man be permitted to spend his Rhodes money, for an education who was not actually interested in athletics. It makes it a bit difficult to bark and bay about athletic scholarships at their own universities. There is no essential difference. There was never an athletic scholarship based on athletics alone.

Ah, yes, the empire builder Rhodes left a left jab stuck in the faces of the professors—a sort of irritating left jab that will last through economic eternity. It's always there—the Rhodes left. The student and the athlete—never one or the other—but together in the one man.

It's that—or no play.

THE MAN RHODES.

Quite a fellow, Cecil Rhodes, whose bequest sends athletic students from all the English possessions, from the United States and Germany to Oxford.

He was a millionaire by his own efforts at the age of 19.

(Try THAT on your husband some time, young lady. Remind him that Cecil Rhodes, despite ill health, was a millionaire at 19. Things like that please husbands.)

Rhodes, born in Hertfordshire, England, in July of 1853, was forced to leave England after a grammar grade education and seek health in South Africa. He was suffering from tuberculosis. He landed in South Africa in 1870 and made his way to the Kimberley diamond fields.

He was 17 years old. Two years later he was worth more than a million.

He went back to England and entered Oxford. His health sent him back to South Africa that same year. Three years later he tried again.

He went into politics. He built empires and tore them down. He started wars and stopped them. He was frail and sick but his will seemed to be strong enough to carry him through everything. The Boer war justified his policy of imperialism.

Disease finally conquered him. But he left, through his will, the fund which sends Oxford scholars from all the English-speaking world. They must be scholars AND athletes. Rhodes had an idea that the English-speaking peoples of the world were best fitted to rule the world, and that is the primary purpose of the scholarships—to train men for that.

I suspect the students have strayed away from the ideas of the old empire builder, a Kipling type. Perhaps some of them, who use his money, would be ashamed of the old fellow's ideas of imperialism and would repudiate his economics.

But they try for his scholarships—based on athletic interest and participation.

I love that. It hurts some of our learned pedants so very much.

THE YALE CAPTAIN.

Bob Lassiter Jr., captain of the 1933 Yale football team, was one of those here yesterday for the examinations. I can recommend Jimmy Jones' interview, in this section, as good reading—about a great fellow.

Lassiter liked his nine years of football, four of them at Yale, three with the varsity. He had a lot of fun playing, despite the fact that most of his play was with a losing team.

In the Jones interview you will find a flat repudiation of the charge made by eastern writers to the effect that the Yale team of 1933 played for fun and not to win. They played to win, but they had fun doing it. Which is true of all football players.

I have never seen an athlete who did not get fun out of his particular sport, who did not also lack something worth while in his make-up.

A number of the contestants yesterday were baseball players and swimmers. Lassiter was the only one who had attained national prominence in football.

I like the story about Rhodes. It's great stuff. It might be one of the old-style Kipling stories. He was in South Africa when Kipling was. And he shouldered a rifle in defense of Kimberly.

And he left those scholarships—an eternal left jab in the face of the cloistered, theoretic pedants. Everywhere they turn it's there—athletics.

WHAT? A BOOK—ALREADY?

The gag of the week concerns the two beautiful but dumb young things who went into a local book shop. There was a display of that book grandmother loved, "Little Women."

"Oh, look," said one of the young things, pointing, "the movie was here only last week and they've already got out a book about 'Little Women.'" (Probably thinks it's a story about feminine pigmies.) (The finishing schools really finish some of them.)

MIAMI PLAY

Malon Courts is Defeated in Close Match by Cuban Star.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Frank X. Shields, of New York, the United States No. 1 player, won by love sets from Larry Larson at Perry Park, in Shields' first tournament game of the year and in the second round of the Miami Biltmore championship play. Larson, the veteran campaigner, played much better tennis than the score showed, but the Peorian bowed to the fast pace of the New Yorker. Shields displayed excellent form and permitted but two games to go to decide in the first set, and one in the second.

In one of the two close matches of the second day's play, Ricardo Morales, top ranking Cuban player, had to call on reserve craftsmanship to win from Malon Courts, of Atlanta, 8-6, 7-5. Courts is co-holder of the southern doubles title.

EX-CHAMP BOWLS. The other bitterly fought contest was between Carroll Turner, of Miami, former Florida champion, and Hardner Mulloy, No. 1 player of the University of Miami. Turner won in five sets, 7-5, 7-5.

Hudson Hamm, of Fort Lauderdale, another former Florida champion, won his first round today by default from Olin McKenzie, of Miami, and then, after a close opening set, won in the second by a 6-1 margin. Sidney Axlerod, of New York, 8-6, 6-1. Hamm's victories placed all of the seeded players in the third round. Shields drew a first-round bye, and Marcel Rainville, of Montreal, Canada, who similarly was passed in the first round, played his second round yesterday. The seeded men have won their matches without exception.

Cliff Sutter, of New Orleans, national four, had trouble getting started but came back in the second to defeat Joe Abree, of Ithaca, N. Y., 8-6, 6-3.

GRANT WINS.

Bryan Grant Jr., of Atlanta, No. 7 and co-holder with Courts of the southern doubles championship, won easily, 6-2, 6-4, from Richard Seabury, of Spring Lake, N. J.

George M. Lott Jr., of Chicago, used his troublesome twist shot to good advantage to defeat Milton Douglas, of New York, 6-1, 6-2. Lott, ranked tenth on the U. S. L. T. A.'s proposed list, played a beautiful net game.

Dr. Gene McCauliff, of New York, won from Charles Alburt, of Miami, 6-0, 6-1, and Arthur Hendrix, of Lakeland, Fla., Florida champion, defeated G. Carlton Shafer, of Philadelphia, 6-2, 6-4.

YALE'S COACH REVEALED SOON

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 8.—(UP)—Selection of Yale's head football coach for 1934—either the current pilot, Reggie Root, or a new man—will be announced next week. It was learned tonight at the university.

It is generally believed in undergraduate circles that Root will resign and that Harry Kipke, Michigan coach, will be appointed his successor.

In case obligations at Michigan would prevent Kipke from coming to New Haven for the 1934 season, Root or some other man might hold the Eli helm temporarily, meanwhile laying the groundwork for the arrival of Kipke.

Ivan Williamson, captain and end of Michigan's 1932 team, came to New Haven and conferred with Malcolm Farmer last Friday, officials of the Yale football association. It was learned that the conference concerned Williamson's becoming freshman coach at Yale.

Dr. Marvin Stevens, who coached Yale in 1933, declined to accept reappointment because of professional duties.

Renaissance Play

Aiken Wednesday

The famous Renaissance basketball team will play the Aiken All-Stars Wednesday night at Sunset casino. The Renaissance team is unquestionably the best colored team in the world. These seniors broke the record for consecutive wins established by the original Celtics last year when they won 88 straight games in the season of 1932-33. In the game today, Eryie Saatch, one of the best under-the-basket shots in the game; "Tarzan" Cooper, who is a fine center; and Johnny Holt, Bill Yancey and Hiram Slocum.

Chief Aiken will attempt to combat the Renaissance with Donald Reeves, De Costa, Howard Archer, Carl Ray, Ralph Long, LeRoy McNeil and others. A special section has been reserved for white fans who wish to see this great team in action. The game is to be called at 7:30 p. m.

Godwin-Rosenbloom Bout Stands Out

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The boxing scene shifts into the southland this week.

The twice-postponed non-championship battle between Maxey Rosenbloom of New York and Bob Godwin of Georgia will be held at West Palm Beach, Fla., Saturday night. The boxing scene will get under way tomorrow night with a heavyweight duel between two aging veterans of the ring—Johnny Risko, of Cleveland, and Jimmy Maloney, of Boston.

Rosenbloom's light-heavyweight crown will not be at stake in the 12-round match with Godwin, but on February 1 the Harlem play-boy will put it on the block in a 15-rounder with Joe Knight in Madison Square Garden, bantam at Miami.

New York offers the only serious opposition to the southern program this week with a 10-rounder between Cleto Locarelli, of Italy, European lightweight champion, and Jack (Kid) Berg, of England, in the Garden Friday night.

MAJOR SEASON WITH RED SOX

Special Game Set for April 16; Others Start Next Day.

Bob Lassiter, North Carolina boy and 1933 Yale football captain, here for a Rhodes scholarship test, denies a statement attributed to him that he and his mates played "for fun only" in the last season's games. "I never saw a college football player who didn't play to win," Lassiter stated.

MIAMI OPEN WON BY STONEHOUSE

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Shooting a careful, steady game, Ralph Stonehouse, 29, of Indianapolis, today won the Miami open golf championship.

The diminutive pro, who already holds the eastern Indiana and tri-state titles, defeated Willie Dow, 48-year-old Miami Scotchman, by a four-stroke margin in an 18-hole play-off of a tied 279 score they posted to lead the field at the end of the regular 72-hole tournament yesterday.

With slow, painstaking form, Stonehouse carded a 36, one over par, on the outgoing nine, and shot the back side in a regulation 35 for a 71. He picked up two birdies on the round, one for a double, but slipped one over regulation figures on each of the three other holes.

Dow, who seldom studied a shot and was decidedly erratic around the greens, was out in 28, one over par, and was only one stroke better on the incoming nine to post a 75. Quick striking cost him a number of putts, some for only a foot or two.

The title alone was at stake today, the players having decided to split the first prize of $500 and the second place money of $350 for a purse of $850 each.

Victory for the Indianapolis player probably will result in his participation for him to play in the historic international four-ball classic to be played here in March. In previous years it has been customary for the winner of the Miami open to receive a bid to the colorful four-ball matches, which will be played by 16 two-man teams.

In the match today, Stonehouse established a lead on the first hole and held it throughout. Four times during the early part of the round, Dow cut in with a mazzie, but never was able to do better.

PORTER RIDES TWO WINNERS

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Earl Porter booted home two winners today to steal the show at Tropical park. The double boosted his total for the season to one stroke, but never was able to do better.

It was largely due to Porter's strong ride that Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Easy Come accounted for the Metecomb handicap win in the one-mile sixth event he came from behind to earn the decision with the B. P. stable's Well Built after being left at the post. Easy Come's triumph gave Mrs. Whitney a double, as her three-year-old Black Harmony won the second round.

Easy Come was forced to equal the furthest track record of 1:10.15 to beat J. E. Smallman, Canadian-owned Federal Road by a nose in the last stride. Mrs. J. Grossman's Merry On, a recent arrival from New Orleans, was a length and a half behind in third place.

Contribute, either second or third in the last five times out, finally found a field he could beat at Jefferson park, but the margin of victory over Blue Day was only a nose. Phalaris, third at the end of the six furlongs, was left with Comfort for the lead but weakened near the end.

Stanford Denies Game With Lions

STANFORD, UNIVERSITY, Cal., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Commenting on quoted statements of Coach Lou Little, of Columbia University, that Columbia and Stanford football teams would meet "in the east" next fall, Alfred R. Masters, general manager of the Stanford board of athletic control, said today: "There are no negotiations now for such a contest."

Masters said he discussed the possibility of such a game with Little in Pasadena following the 1933 New Year's Day triumph over Stanford. He expressed belief Little would not have authority to schedule such a game.

"It would not be practicable for Stanford to go to New York during the regular season," Masters declared, "and so far as I know there is no talk of a game next fall."

"Of course, Stanford would like to play Columbia again, for Columbia is the big-class opposition in every way," he said, "but there is nothing doing just now in the way of arranging such a game."

COACH FRIEDMAN

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(UP)—Benjamin Friedman, former Michigan All-American quarterback and professional football player, is slated to become head football coach at the college of the city of New York on February 1, according to reliable reports today. He would succeed Coach Harold Parker. Friedman could not be reached for confirmation.

SENATORS OPEN MAJOR SEASON WITH RED SOX

Special Game Set for April 16; Others Start Next Day.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Having already adopted a standard ball for the 1934 baseball season, the major league chief executives emerged from another huddle today with the first uniform schedule in the organized history of the American and National leagues.

Due to the repeal of the state blue laws in Pennsylvania, permitting Sunday baseball for the first time, the three big league clubs in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia will share equally in the distribution of Sabbath dates. Instead of the unbalanced schedule heretofore necessary, each of the 16 teams will play 12 games at home on Sunday this year.

The 154-game schedule for the two leagues, condensed in a week's shorter time than last year, runs from April 17 to September 30, with two special occasions provided for. The first is an advance opening at Washington, April 16, between the American league champion Senators and the Boston Red Sox, to permit President Roosevelt to throw out the first ball. The other is the fixing of Tuesday, July 10, as the date for the all-star game, between popularly picked teams representing the two big leagues, to be played in New York.

The opening day pairings on April 17 follow:

American League—Washington at Boston, New York at Philadelphia, Detroit at Chicago, St. Louis at Cleveland.

National League—Boston at Brooklyn, Philadelphia at New York, Chicago at Cincinnati, Pittsburgh at St. Louis.

The schedule committee consists of the presidents of the leagues, John A. Heydler and Will Harridge, and Harvey Traub, secretary of the National league.

Spring Drills For B. H. S. Set

Boys' High's annual spring football practice will start Tuesday, February 3, just four weeks from today, it was announced Monday by Coach R. L. Doyle.

Only a few veterans from the 1933 eleven will return to school, and with many prospects for the new team, Coach Doyle has decided on the early practice in order to get away from other spring sports.

The spring drills will last approximately five weeks, determining largely on the development of the candidates. The entire backfield of Rudy Atkinson, Carey McQueen, Carlisle Smith and George Gerakitis will be returned. Several outstanding reserves will likely cause the veterans to be out of work. Jimmy Brandes will head the group of reserves.

Tom Allen and Otis Maffett will be missing from the ends and Ginsberg will be lost at tackle.

Mount, Brooks, Jones and DeLoach will be returned to the line and around the center of the forward wall, Coach Doyle hopes to build another strong line.

Spencer C. Abbott, new manager of the Atlanta Crackers, will be in the city today and from now on, you may expect the baseball business to start picking up.

Nothing, not even the baseball business in January, is going to lag with Spencer Abbott around. If it shows signs of lagging too much, Spencer simply will sit back, tell a couple of highly amusing episodes from his 26 years in baseball, including the time he charged out of a dugout at an umpire, struck his head against the concrete top and knocked himself out.

That is a true story, also the one about the time that Buster Brown, the famous Nashville bad boy first baseman, planted a left hook under Spencer's chin during a free-for-all between Nashville and Memphis players back in 1922, and they gently carried him from the field while Buster finished taking care of a few other guys.

Risko Wonders, Says Fight Game Is Screwed to Him

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 8.—(AP)—To Johnny Risko, that everlasting run-up for championship honors, this fight business "looks kinda screwy."

Risko, who meets Jimmy Maloney tomorrow night at the Miami coliseum, was talking with newspaper men, when he said:

"I merely got up and stated that I, personally, had enjoyed the associations made in the game and the fun of playing, as much as that of winning. 'You know, it was funny how the whole thing started. Looking back upon the remark, if properly interpreted, there doesn't seem to be any reason for all the fuss and cry that was raised over it at the time.'"

"You recall that it happened at our football banquet. As captain of the team, naturally I was called upon to speak first. I had lost quite a few games, in which we had played reasonably good football, and I decided to touch upon this fact and also that winning was not an essential to enjoying the game."

"Well, one of the New York newspapers took this paragraph, excerpt from the account of the banquet and commented on it, making quite a flurry over it. He apparently misinterpreted the remark, in gathering that we had gone on record as saying that we played for fun and not to win. Nothing was ever further from my mind. I assure you, I am a fighter, especially when I was captain of the team, I never went on the field in a Yale uniform that I did not give my very best and that I, and my teammates, did not try to win. All football players want to win."

Lassiter talked in calm, even tones and on the whole, dispassionately, about the matter. He did not berate anyone, nor even the press which first took him to task, or some of the noted ex-Yale athletes, including Memphis Bill Mallory and Ted Corb, who gave out criticism in rebuking him and his mates for his statement.

"If I hadn't liked football, I wouldn't have played nine years of it, in Yale, in the Albany, Georgia town; four at Woodberry Academy, Virginia, and four at Yale. I'll admit that I'm a little tired of it now, because I have played enough of it for one man's lifetime. It is hard work, football, don't forget that, and I have tried to make a good record in my studies to the exclusion of all other athletics."

TALKS OF GEORGIA. Lassiter then switched the subject to the University of Georgia football team, which has conquered Yale, his alma mater, for the third time. Lassiter played in two of those games—1931 and 1933. They did not meet in 1932.

He told an amusing story of the last Yale-Georgia game, dealing with Sam Brown, the Albany, Ga. boy who plays in the Georgia backfield.

It was told that day and Sam, according to his usual custom, came on the field in his sleeveless jersey. He had cut off the sleeves early in the season, so that they would not handicap him on the spin plays.

"We kept kidding Brown about freezing to death without his sleeves, but he refused to put on another jersey. Everytime we tackled him hard, he would say, 'you didn't hurt me, you didn't hurt me, a-tall.' And we didn't."

Lassiter, by the way, gives Brown credit for saving the 1933 Yale-Green game in the last quarter, when he ran a Yale punt back some 40 yards up the sidelines, after Ellis had driven deep into Georgia territory. The punt was aimed out of bounds, and would have had Georgia in a spot, but for Sleeveless Sam's sensational return.

THE KEY. The Yale captain also thought Mr. Key a great little back. Asked if he (Lassiter) ever scored in a Georgia game, he replied pleasantly: "No, but I made a touchdown for Georgia by being out of position on a 15-yard run by Homer Key in my sophomore year."

He thinks Fritz Crisler at Princeton and Lou Little, who won with a light Columbia team at the Rose Bowl, did the best coaching jobs in the east this year. Lassiter revealed the fact that he himself figured Stanford to beat the Lions two touchdowns.

Bob Lassiter is from a football family. He had a brother, Hagen Lassiter, who played for North Carolina and scored the touchdown that tied Georgia in 1932 after an intercepted pass. He has a younger brother who is a freshman at Yale.

"It looks kinda screwy to me."

Prep Teams Open Season Today: Tucker Air Gets Tarmey

MARIST MEETS B. H. S.; DECATUR VS. DRUID HILLS

Maffett Named Captain; Russell High Abandons Court Sport.

Atlanta's prep basketball schedule will be opened today with two games on the card. Boys' High plays Marist at 3 o'clock on the Henry Grady court and Decatur plays Druid Hills at 7:30 o'clock tonight on the Decatur court.

The afternoon game will be the first for Marist and the first home game of the year for Boys' High. The game was postponed Friday night in Macon, but stopped Albany High's winning streak at nine games in winning Saturday from the south Georgia quintet.

Tonight's game will be the first for Decatur and the second of the year for Druid Hills. A girls' game will precede the Decatur-Druid Hills boys' game tonight.

Meanwhile other prep teams will speed up their activities in preparation for week-end games.

Tech High opens its schedule Friday night with Columbus Industrial as opponent. The game will be played at 7:30 o'clock on the Henry Grady court.

Tech High and Lanier High will resume their bitter rivalry at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night on the Henry Grady court in the second basketball game of the week for the Smithies. Tech High defeated Lanier, 7 to 6, to win the state football crown in December.

Efforts are being made to secure out-of-town games for Boys' High for Wednesday, Thursday or Friday nights.

Maffett Elected Boys' High Captain.

Otis Maffett, captain of the 1933 football team, was elected captain of the 1934 Boys' High basketball team. Jerry Kelly was selected as alternate captain. They were the only players from last year's team to return for another year.

Maffett plays center and Kelly alternates at guard and center.

Maffett has been an outstanding athlete at Boys' High, and is a real leader. He was one of the best defensive centers in the league last season and should be even better this season.

Russell Abandons Basketball Plans.

Russell High, a championship contender in the North Georgia Inter-scholastic conference for several years, has abandoned basketball for 1934. The announcement was made Monday afternoon. Inability to secure a court for practice was the reason for discontinuing the sport. Russell practiced last year on the Calvary court in West End.

SAM RICE GIVEN RELEASE BY NATS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The Washington Senators today handed Sam Rice, veteran outfielder, his unconditional release.

Rice was with the Senators 19 seasons. From 1916 through 1930 he was a regular outfielder. Since 1930 he has been a pinch hitter and utility outfielder.

Although 42 years old, Rice said today he expected to connect with some other ball club before long. During his career with the Nats, he hit 290 or better in 11 seasons. His peak year was 1925 with .350.

During last year's World Series against the Giants, he smacked out a single as a pinch hitter.

diplomacy and handwork must go into the wording of the contract terms.

Taylor, the first baseman, was the highest paid player in the Albany N. Y. club of the International last year and is almost sure to be sold out at the Southern league top salary figure.

HIGHLY PAID MEN. Knoche, who played last in the National league, and Kuehler, the outfielder who batted .316 for Milwaukee last year, may have a big signing, as well as Byrne James, the second baseman, who played in 52 games with the world champion Giants last season.

Manager Abbott, who corralled all these players with the assistance of Mr. Robinson and the bank roll of the directors, thinks they can be brought to terms eventually.

Spencer is quite a politician. In addition to managing ball clubs in a dozen different leagues, he was chief of police at Tonawanda, Kan., for three years—1915, 1916, 1917. He should know the art of politics thoroughly by now.

And he has sent some good ball players to the big leagues, including Andy Hughes, Hughie Critz, Earl Webb, Jesse Haines, Mo. Berg, Marty McManis, Elam Vanzeller, Cotton Tierney, Larry Heaton and Pinky Higgins and Joe Bowman of the younger crop, from Portland.

THE SPORTLIGHT

CHAMPIONS AND THEIR CHANCES FOR 1934.

No. 1—Primo Carnera.
I wasn't there when Romulus and Remus started Rome; (I never dipped in for a call, but neither was I home); And yet they started fighting men that cut a world-wide groove, As all the silver eagles of the Roman legions prove.

I'm sorry that I had a date—it may have been a ride—When old Horatius held the bridge, and braved the Tiber tide; But he was there with left and right, with counter and attack, Until the bally bridge collapsed, and Rome was in the black.

With war and carnage, sword and shield, the Roman state began; She spread her stuff from Venice on to Naples and Milan; And then the Hun was at the gate—and Rome has known its day—But even Cobb has passed along, and Ruth is on the way.

Who is it rules the world again, with upercut and blow? A mammoth from beneath the skies that Caesar used to know! A leather-swinging mastodon, from Pompey's ancient trek, A box car for his torso, and a barrel for his neck.

No history once more repeats—"Arms and the Man I Sing," (Though Virgil beat me to it with an even better swing); Where now Carnera stands at bay, amid the growing din, Until somebody comes along and raps him on the chin.

Carnera's Chance.
Carnera's outlook for 1934 depends largely on whether or not he bumps into Max Baer.

If he does, he has a hunch that his heavyweight coronet will be hanging from either the right or the left ear—provided the Livermore entry is near the condition he reached last year.

Carnera is what you might call a human opposite. Which is to say, he is the opposite of what might be expected.

Standing 6 feet 7 and weighing 265 pounds, you would normally expect him to be a slow-moving man. He is neither a slow-moving man nor a fast-moving man. He is a man who can't be knocked down by a fly.

On the contrary, he is fast for a mammoth, a good boxer, and he can't punch.

He might slip some opponent a bad headache by lifting his right or left arm and dropping it across the skull, but that isn't punching. There is little snap in a pair of arms that might have been cut from a California redwood. And his bulk is too great to have body and arm movement work together against a moving target.

Young Mr. Baer carries a pretty fair amount of nitroglycerine or gun-cotton in either paw.

He can hit a man with his right or left arm and drop it across the skull, but that isn't punching. There is little snap in a pair of arms that might have been cut from a California redwood. And his bulk is too great to have body and arm movement work together against a moving target.

No one has ever tagged the new champion as Baer will tag him. If they ever meet, and how can they help meeting, figuring the cash this show will bring in?

The best tip is that Carnera won't have anything better than an even chance against Baer. He ought to be a rough against anyone else.

Columbia's Return.

Columbia did something more than win a big football game—something more than prove again that Lou Little is a brilliant coach—Cliff Montanari, a smart, skillful leader, that Columbia could play its full share of football.

It also slipped a good lesson to numerous partisans of the far west, who in many cases have lost all sense of intercollegiate balance.

They play great football on the west coast—but not all the football there is eventually.

As a rule, the midwest and the south would have been pulling for the west against New York.

On this occasion it was Columbia that carried most of the national football section—not only because Columbia looked to be physically outclassed, but because a large hunk of far western comment had begun to turn out in the Columbia, southern and midwestern skies.

Columbians Start Panic in Theater

New York, Jan. 8.—(AP)—A group of youthful youths decided last night that the proper way to celebrate the return from the Rose Bowl football victory of the Columbia University team was to "smash" an upper Broadway movie theater and shout "Fire."

Twenty persons were injured, not seriously, in the resultant panic.

Some of the youths were identified by police as undergraduates of the university. They forced their way into the theater and, once inside, someone shouted "Fire."

The theater was nearly filled, and there was a scramble for the exits. Police reserves arrived in time to make a mass arrest, the youths being booked for disorderly conduct.

Many theater seats were broken as the crowd rushed for exits.

Police said the students went to the theater to see pictures of the Columbia-Stanford football game, and forced their way in without tickets.

Jarvis Organizes Class in Boxing

A boxing class has been organized by Jeff Jarvis at the Bellwood arena, 758 Bankhead avenue. The classes are held each afternoon and the boys are instructed in a group according to the various weights.

The regular weekly wrestling card at the arena has been canceled this week, due to the picture in the Columbia-Stanford football game, and forced their way in without tickets.

S. S. A. A.

NATIONAL LEAGUE.
The Mount Vernon girls make their debut in the league tonight against the Kirkwood girls as the teams begin the second round of the schedule. The game is the first on the weekly schedule and starts at 7 o'clock.

Epworth Methodist and the J. O. Y. class boys play at 7:30. Inman Park girls and Junior Hadassah meet in the best girls' game which finds the latter trying desperately to outshine Inman Park girls who so far has not been pressed to win.

The schedule:
Mount Vernon Baptists vs. Kirkwood Methodist (girls), 7.
Epworth Methodist vs. Central Baptist 10:15.
O. Y. class (boys), 7:40.
Inman Park Baptists vs. Junior Hadassah (girls), 8:30.
Mount Vernon Baptists vs. Oakland City Methodist (boys), 9:10.

OTHELLO COVERS TERRY RANKS PRAISE CHANGE ARE FURNISHED BY YOUNGSTERS

Dunlap, Ouimet, Sweetser Others Boost New System; Yates Comments.

By Edward J. Neil.
NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(AP)—With but one dissenting voice, that of a merely personal preference for the old system, prominent amateurs of the nation, headed by George T. Dunlap, Jr., 1933 titleholder, and Francis Ouimet, Walker Cup captain, heartily endorsed today the new all-match-play method of determining the amateur golf championship.

Despite the physical stress and strain added by elimination of 35 holes of qualifying play in the tournament proper and substitution of 18 matches from the start among 150 sectional qualifiers, the veterans—Ouimet, Chick Evans, Jess Sweetser and Jesse Guifford—are all in favor.

YATES' IDEA.
Only Chick Evans, of Atlanta, one of golf's most promising youngsters, thought he liked the old way of doing things better, but he hastened to add that one system of play seemed as fair to him as another.

"Some players in the large districts qualifying against strong competition with say 150 or so previously had now their mettle all over again in tournament qualifying play, while now they go right in to the match play," he said.

Ouimet, who won the open as a boy back in 1913 and has bobbed up occasionally since as the amateur champion as well as captain of the Walker Cup team in 1932 and this year, is strongly in approval.

"The new plan is revolutionary but I believe it clears up many difficulties," he said. "It represents the true amateur spirit and will prove immensely popular. The new system will be the seventh under which I have played in the national amateur."

"All-match play will prove very successful," thought Jesse Guifford, the Boston siege gun, who with Sweetser missed out in the qualifying play in Cincinnati last year after surviving the sectional play.

SWEETSER.
"It's the greatest thing that ever happened to golf," said Sweetser, who long has had a preference for match play and proved it by winning the British amateur in 1926, first native American, and aside from Bobby Jones, the only one to win the finals of the tournament after which the new U. S. G. A. plan is designed.

Dunlap, who went to the semi-finals of the British amateur last year before winning the United States amateur, also looks with pleasure on this year's competition at Brookline, Mass., as a "natural" choice.

"Amateur golf has always been essentially match play, and will continue to be, although perhaps medal play requires more skill," he said.

Others commenting were:

EVANS.
Charles "Chick" Evans, former champion: "It is a grand idea. It will give a more exciting championship. The old system was too dull, sometimes even hulling newspapermen to sleep. The new won't agree with me, but I think it's a better change. A good golfer can win just as easily over 18 to 36 holes as he can adjust to the new system. If you can let in superb condition to win the amateur now, more so than in England. The courses are longer over here."

Jack Westland, Chicago, Walker Cup veteran, said: "I think it's swell. It will give good golfers a better chance and more thrills to the galleries. The old system put too much pressure on good players. It was a wicked and unfair system. If you can let in superb condition to win the amateur now, more so than in England. The courses are longer over here."

Billy Howell, promising Richmond, Va., youngster: "The new system suits me fine. Medal play always has been my bugaboo."

'Much More Fun', Dunlap States.

PINEHURST, N. C., Jan. 8.—(AP) The new system of match play under which the United States amateur championship will be decided hereafter will provide "much more fun" to title competing, George T. Dunlap Jr., the champion, believes.

Amateur golf always has meant match play, the titleholder said today. "While it is not so good a test as medal play, it certainly is much more fun."

There are few good golfers who enjoy medal play, Dunlap said. The arrangement this year with all those 18-hole matches, it is going to be a tough job for any outstanding player to win, but then there are few outstanding players in the amateur ranks, so it all evens up.

"The British amateur last year was the first amateur all-match-play tournament I ever played in, and I enjoyed it all the way," he said.

Dunlap said he would make another bid for the British crown since he is going across next spring as a member of the Walker Cup team. Last year he resigned to make room for the player he defeated in the final round, Michael Scott.

Physical Fitness Class Has 100 Men

Enrollment in the physical fitness class at the Atlanta Athletic Club reached 100 men last week, most of them being interested in volleyball and basketball, which are the two most popular games at the club. The most that have been on the floor at one time is 36, with three full volleyball games going on at the same time.

Buddy Hackman, former ball lugger for the University of Tennessee, was a guest of Bobby Dodd at the volleyball class last week. Bobby was a team captain in the state finals of the state, Cal., in 1 hour 4 minutes 50 seconds of tugging and hauling at Madison Square Garden tonight. Brown, weighing 290 pounds, Steele 215.

Sharkey Vacations At Florida Resort

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Jack Sharkey, former world's heavyweight champion, and Mrs. Sharkey arrived here today for an extended vacation. While here, Sharkey expects to witness the light-heavyweight championship bout February 1 between Maxie Rosenbloom, the titleholder, and Joe Knight, of Georgia, and the world's heavyweight bout here February 22 between Champion Primo Carnera and Tommy Loughran.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Macdonald Smith today won the Los Angeles open golf championship for the fourth time in the nine years' life of the event.

The silent Scot from Carnoustie, who will be 44 years old in two months, finished with sensational rounds of 69 and 68 to round out a 72-hole count of 280, even par for the distance over the difficult championship course of the Los Angeles Country Club.

Smith carried his years lightly as he hit green after green with rifle shot approaches and knocked in putts from all distances. He has been a competitor in golf in the United States for nearly a quarter of a century, but there was no youngster on his heels today who could come within many strokes of his score.

The winner received $1,450. The prize was playing for $5,000 guaranteed and the receipts as well as a big and enthusiastic gallery on the last day brought this to several hundred dollars beyond the guarantee.

Second place will remain in doubt until tomorrow. George Von Elm, former amateur champion and now a "businessman golfer," and Willie Hunter, Los Angeles professional, who as an amateur won the British amateur title, were engulfed in darkness after playing 16 holes of the fourth round. Von Elm was in the lead, but he had two holes in par 4s, his 72-hole score will be 287 and he will slip a stroke under Bill Melhorn to take second place. Hunter has two 4s and Chandler 288 and go into a tie for third place.

With the returns incomplete, Willie Goggin, of San Francisco, and John Revolta, of Milwaukee, were tied for third with 289, but there was good chance that Von Elm and Hunter will interfere with this ranking tomorrow.

Olin Dutra, of Santa Monica, who led the brilliant field for three rounds, was in a three-way tie for fifth for the time being with scores of 290. Dutra started his fourth round with 211, leading by a stroke. He ran into one of the most distressing breaks of any golf competition on the 7th hole when he used up 9 strokes in a par 3 hole.

His tee shot caught a trap and his recovery carried into heavy brush, leaving an unplayable lie and a penalty of 2 strokes. Undismayed, the big pro fired bravely for the green and ended the round with a 290, bounded the other way, leaving him 5 and still not on the green.

By this time he was punch drunk. His pitch did not reach the putting green. Finally on the 7th he took 2 putts for a 9. Out in 44 strokes, he kept playing on the return journey and toured the last nine holes in par 25 and 29 for a 72-hole score of 290.

Paul Runyon, who went to lunch on just a stroke behind Dutra after a morning 74 and tied with Mac Smith, also had a hard time. He was on the testing fourth round and finished with 78 and a 290 to tie Dutra and Wiffy Cox, of New York, who put together 75 and 72 with his 74 and 80 yesterday.

COVINGTON LOSES.

COVINGTON, Ga., Covington lost a close game to Cartersville High school Saturday night, 20 to 19. Covington was in the last quarter to lead, but a field goal won for Cartersville. Palmer Stone defeated Grayson, 29 to 10. Palmer Stone remains undefeated.

WILD GINGER.

While I am on the subject of plants that can be found in the winter months I want to call attention to the wild ginger, most of you will know as heart-leaf, and the flowers which I gathered at lib in my childhood, having no resemblance to flowers as I understood them. It is a small plant, but it is known and loved this plant ever since those early excursions into the woods with my mother and father, who thought it a beautiful and very young thing. I shouldn't be surprised if this plant were not responsible for the interest in wild life that later developed in me when clearly asking to be taken to the woods to get "pigs."

There was usually a trip through the woods. I realize that my mother was a woman of her time, and there will be a full possession of the land, and the busiest season of the year for the naturalist will be under way. I have had them intensely exciting when the most colorful and beautiful of autumn and autumn have faded and passed away. I have found them symbols of promise of full seasons to come when other signs of life had disappeared under the cold dampness of winter. And when the August sun has blistered my back while I hunt for lizards I shall find the alternative of delicious cold days that lie ahead.

Before many weeks we will find trout-fisheries, or dog-tooth violets, beginning to bloom. There will be hepatics, and hellebores, and there will follow the bloodroot. Then spring will be in full possession of the land, and the busiest season of the year for the naturalist will be under way. I have had them intensely exciting when the most colorful and beautiful of autumn and autumn have faded and passed away. I have found them symbols of promise of full seasons to come when other signs of life had disappeared under the cold dampness of winter. And when the August sun has blistered my back while I hunt for lizards I shall find the alternative of delicious cold days that lie ahead.

Cheves Denied Review Of Bird Refuge Suit

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Langdon Cheves, of Red Knoll plantation, in the Savannah river in Chatham county, Georgia, today was denied a supreme court review of his suit in the United States circuit court, including the 414-acre plantation in the Savannah river bird refuge.

Cheves, suing with several others, charged the plantation lost its value when the birds were removed to the river raised the water in the marshland. Previous owners were reimbursed for the flowage rights, he said.

Seeking to include the land in the refuge and signs were posted about the property keeping people off.

The southern district of Georgia federal court enjoined the game authorities from punishing Cheves and his associates should they remove the signs but the fifth circuit court of appeals reversed his order.

Committee to Discuss PWA Architects' Fee

A special committee of the state board of control Monday authorized Chairman E. E. Lindsey, of the board, to go to Washington for a conference with Public Works Administrator Ickes regarding the fee to be paid architects employed by the board in connection with its $4,000,000 improvement program for the state.

The board has decided to pay a fee of 2 per cent for architectural services, but Mr. Lindsey said Monday that leading architects are asking for a higher fee, most of them 5 per cent.

The committee authorized me to lay the situation before Mr. Ickes and I will take the matter up with him in Washington later in the week," the board chairman said.

Effort to Revamp Tammany Begins

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—A new plan to depose John F. Curry, Tammany chieftain, as the dominating figure among New York city democrats and eventually to drop the name Tammany Hall is being circulated in circles close to the administration.

If the proponents of the plan could attain their goal, Tammany would cease to exist under that name, and the democratic party in the nation's largest city would be reorganized under some new appellation.

Those in a responsible position said tonight that the proposed method of procedure contemplated a sweeping anti-Tammany move in upstate New York and four of the five boroughs comprising Greater New York city. This would be calculated to isolate Curry "boxed in" on Manhattan Island if he continued to cling to his leadership.

In New York a committee called upon Curry and asked him to resign.

FIFTH DISTRICT TEAMS TO VIE FOR TITLE THERE

Winner Will Go to Athens; Officers for Meet Named.

Tucker was awarded the annual fifth district basketball tournament for the second successive year. It was announced Monday at a meeting of the association at Decatur High school.

Dates for the event were set for February 15, 16 and 17, and both divisions of the district will compete simultaneously.

At a meeting of the Georgia High School Association last year it was voted to divide the high schools into three groups, according to their enrollment. All schools with more than 800 students will play in A division. Group B has schools with an enrollment between 125 and 800 and all others form Group C.

Winners in each district tournament will compete in the annual state high school tournament in Athens, Ga., during the first week in September. The state tournament will again be sponsored by the University of Georgia.

Chamblee High won the 1933 district tournament, with University School as the runner-up.

Professor Mundy, of Tucker, was named chairman of the basketball committee and he was assisted by Professor Taylor, of Druid Hills, and Professor Bent, of Clarkston. O. L. Amisler, of Decatur, is the president and an ex-officio member of the tournament committee.

Members of the fifth district are Alpharetta, Avondale, Chamblee, Commercial, High, Conners, Clarkston, Druid Hills, Fairburn, Fulton High, Decatur High, Lithonia, Marietta, North Fulton, Russell High, Stone Mountain, Tucker, Southwest DeKalb and University School for Boys.

A site for the annual track meet and the dates will be announced later. Taylor, of Druid Hills, was named to confer with officials at Emory for staging the event. Emory sponsored the meet last year.

Garage Considered As Texas U. Coach

LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Harry Gamage, retiring football coach at the University of Texas, today received a telegram today from officials at Austin for a conference relative to filling the vacant position at Texas. He said he planned to go to Austin some time this week. The coaching job there became vacant when Clyde Littlefield resigned.

TARZAN THE INVINCIBLE No. 110

La of Opar made her way slowly through the jungle after she had escaped from Ibn Dammak and his companions. She would go back to Opar, though she knew she might not enter it in safety. But, perhaps, some day Tarzan would come there.

Presently she became aware of pursuit, and so she increased her speed. She had no wish to fall into the hands of the slavers. As she was moving swiftly on, a turn in the trail brought her to a sudden stop, for there blocking her retreat stood a great maned lion.

This time La remembered the animal, not as Jad-bal-ja, the hunting mate of Tarzan, but as the lion that had rescued her from the leopard. She quickly made her choice between the lion and the Arabs pursuing her and advanced directly toward the great beast.

Jad-bal-ja had long had the scent spoor of La in his nostrils, and so he had awaited her, his curiosity aroused by the fainter scent spoor of the men trailing her. As she came toward him along the trail, like a great cat, he rubbed his maned neck against her legs.
